GIVES $5 TO CHURCH BY MISTAKE, BUT HE GETS IT BACK

Donor Then Rewards Treasurer of Congregation With 25 Cents for "Honesty."

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 18.—A church treasurer's life is not always one of ease. For last Sunday the treasurer of the First Baptist Church here found a $5 gold piece on the plate. To his astonishment a stranger called next day and asked for it. He explained, unabashed, that he had put the money on the plate, mistaking it for a cent. The treasurer conferred with the church clerk, who said not to give it back, but the treasurer returned the money. Thereupon the stranger gave him a quarter for his "honesty."

EXPERIENCES IN REAL ESTATE AND OIL EXCHANGED IN SENATE

Trammell of Florida and Lister Turns Interrogator.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Experiences in Oklahoma oil and Florida real estate were exchanged in the Senate today by Senator Trammell, a Florida Democrat. Opposing Senator Trammell's resolution for a Federal Trade Commission inquiry into the recent rise of gasoline prices, Senator Lister asked whether the author of the resolution would support a general inquiry into real estate prices in his home State. The Florida Senator replied that any real estate sales accomplished by "crooked dealing" should be condemned. Then Trammell himself turned interrogator.

TESTIFIES FROM COT IN 'UIT FOR DAMAGES OF $100,000

Clothing Company Employee Was Injured in Fall When Operating Pressing Machine.

Sam Tedeschi, 28 years old, plaintiff in a $100,000 damage suit, was carried into Circuit Judge Ossing's court on a hospital cot today to testify before a jury in his claim. An Italian immigrant, he testified through an interpreter, that he was employed by the Hecht Bros. Clothing Co., 1323 Washington avenue, operating a pressing machine, when he lost his balance and fell down on Sept. 28, 1922. His spine was injured and his right leg paralyzed, as a result, he said. Tedeschi's attorney asserted that he had been confined to bed since the accident and declared the company was at fault because the quarters where Tedeschi worked were overcrowded. Defense attorneys contended the company was not at fault. Tedeschi lives at 1021 North Thirteenth street.

GIVES LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Mrs. Emma Gunther, 62 years old, a widow, gave her life yesterday in the rescue of roomers in her home, when fire was discovered in the basement. A workman next door saw smoke sifting from the basement and rang the bell. Mrs. Gunther had time to escape to the street, but instead ran through the house awakening roomers. Charles Kossack, 16, and William Muldoon, 24, were overcome by smoke. They also suffered burns about their heads and hands. The other roomers escaped unharmed. Mrs. Gunther was found on the top floor and taken to the street, but she died of burns and asphyxiation soon after.

DR. BRIGGS HEARD IN DEFENSE OF HIS MEDICAL LICENSE

Head of St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons Testifies Before State Health Board.

"ADCOX SPLIT SHEET" PUT IN EVIDENCE

Defendant First Questioned About Notation of Payment "$4700 Adcox to Briggs."

Dr. Waldo M. Briggs, president and dean of the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, today took the witness stand before the State Board of Health in defense of his license to practice medicine in Missouri. Dr. Joseph R. Sintzel, former secretary of the college, has made a formal accusation of bad moral character against Dr. Briggs and it is upon this that the board is conducting its hearing in Municipal Court. Dr. Briggs' license, Sintzel charges that Briggs is guilty of trafficking in the sale of medical degrees and credentials and was an associate of Dr. Robert Adcox, now under two-year penitentiary sentence for participation in the operations of the medical diploma ring.

"Split Sheet" Introduced.

Only a few minutes before Briggs took the stand there had been introduced in evidence a sheet of paper on which was the caption, "Adcox split sheet" and the notation "$4700 Adcox to Briggs." It was upon this phase of the evidence that Briggs was first questioned. His testimony like that of all the other witnesses today had the effect of hurrying counter charges of graft in the disposition of medical diplomas and credentials at Sintzel.

Sheet Found by Lillie.

He said he had found the sheet of paper in the secretary's filing cabinet at the school. It contained a list of names and was captioned "$4700 Adcox to Briggs." The notation explained by Lillie who testified he could not account for the sheet and had no idea of the meaning of the caption or notation.

Charges Against Sintzel.

Sintzel, while secretary of the school, offered to sell Sintzel a degree and declared he could arrange with the State Board for a medical practice license for Sintzel, the witness declared. He charged also that Sintzel induced him to assist in removing from the school records records which were later returned in a mutilated condition.

"I was mighty intimate with Joe," Sintzel said in response to questions of Andrew C. Maroney, counsel for Dr. Briggs. "I went to the college for the first time in September, 1922, and we got to be pretty friends. We used to shoot craps a lot. Lots of the boys did. Then Joe found I'd been a pharmacist's mate in the navy and he thought maybe he could get me some credit for my work there, so that made us more friendly than ever."

Testimony As to Records.

With this preliminary explanation, Sintzel proceeded to relate that following raids on the homes of Dr. Adcox and William P. Sachs, another diploma ring figure, in October, 1922, he was at the office of the College of Physicians and Surgeons one evening when Sintzel asked him help in removing some books from the school.

"BULLET-PROOF" GLASS SAVES PINE LAWN BANK FROM ITS THIRD ROBBERY

Shattered by Hold-Up Men's Fire, but Saves Life of Man Struck by Spent Slug—Invaders Flee Empty-Handed.

Confidence of bank employees in the impenetrability of a glass specially designed to resist bullets saved the Pine Lawn Bank, 6149 Natural Bridge road, from robbery this morning. The robbers fled empty-handed after firing five shots through the glass, when the president refused to open the cage. Although the glass did not prove bullet proof, its strength probably saved the life of a customer who was struck over the heart with a bullet that spent its force and flattened out after passing through the glass. This customer was in the cage in conference with the president when the shooting began and was directly in the line of fire.

Charles Dubray, the teller, was balancing a ledger about 10:15 o'clock, when two men, their faces masked with handkerchiefs and carrying revolvers, rushed in and shouted "hands up."

Dubray was behind the glass enclosure, but instead of obeying the command, fell to the floor. The robbers then turned to another enclosure, behind which J. B. Elliott, president, and Joseph Silver of Carsonville, a customer, were conversing.

JARDINE ORDERS INQUIRY IN WHEAT PRICE SITUATION

Sensational Rise in Market Follows Day After Big Slump That Hit Many Traders.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Secretary Jardine today directed the grain futures administration to make an immediate investigation of the recent violent fluctuations in the market price of wheat.

Following yesterday's sensational 13-cent drop in May wheat to $1.53 1/2, which wiped out a number of St. Louis traders and caused a flurry of alarm on "change," the market opened today with an equally sensational rise of 10 cents. It closed at $1.63 1/2, or 8 cents higher than yesterday's close.

While the remarkable 24-hour fall and recovery was a subject of absorbing speculation, members of the Merchants' Exchange here were discussing measures to be taken at a special meeting of the board of directors this afternoon, looking toward preventing the repetition of this and other recent fluctuations, which have greatly disturbed the wheat and flour industry.

SHEPHERD TAKEN TO A CELL ON MURDER CHARGE

Heir of 'Millionaire Orphan' Turned over to Sheriff After Indictment With Faiman.

ACCUSED IDENTIFIED BY FORMER STUDENT

"You're a Liar," Shepherd Shouts in Reiterating His Denial — State Plans to Exhume 2 More Bodies.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 18.—William D. Shepherd and Charles C. Faiman were charged with the murder of William N. McCintock, Shepherd's foster son, in an indictment returned today by the county grand jury.

The indictment, returned before Chief Justice Hopkins of the Criminal Court, charges that Shepherd and Faiman, the latter head of a science school who has confessed, the States Attorney has announced, that he taught Shepherd how to feed "Billy" McCintock typhoid germs to get the boy's $1,000,000 estate, inoculated the victim with typhoid bacilli.

22 Counts in Indictment. The indictment contained 22 counts, each count placing the date of the poisoning as Nov. 15, 1924, and the death as Dec. 4, 1924.

The indictment further charges that poison in the form of acetic, prussic acid and morphine were administered.

Shepherd was turned over to the Sheriff this afternoon to be placed in jail.

Counsel for Shepherd prepared for a battle to free him on bail and told the court they were prepared to provide a bond up to a half million dollars.

The only evidence against Shepherd is the Faiman confession statement, said William Scott Stewart, representing Shepherd. "No court would send a dog to the dog pound on Faiman's word."

The ball fight means that all five of the witnesses who testified before the grand jury must appear Saturday and their grand jury testimony reviewed by the court.

Shepherd's attorneys asked that he be held in the custody of State's Attorney Crowe, in whose custody he has been since last Sunday night. Crowe refused to continue that arrangement.

"Our plea will be not guilty, it has been not guilty and it always will be not guilty," said Stewart. "It is all a gigantic conspiracy to deprive Shepherd of his rights under the will."

Identified by Student. Faiman's confession was considered by prosecutors to have been strengthened last night by Robert White, former student at Faiman's school, who identified the school in the fall of 1923.

Shepherd, said White, seemed much interested in bacteriology and laboratory equipment. His story coincided with the time Faiman said he attended the school.

The accused man, who has not broken down under days of questioning, made the same denial of White's story that he has made of Faiman's and of John P. March, and former attaché of the school, who said Shepherd had attended the school.

BREAKERS HOTEL AT PALM BEACH IS BURNING

Panic Rages as Several Hundred Guests Throw Their Clothing and Gems From Windows.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18.—The Breakers Hotel at Palm Beach, Fla., is burning. The flames are visible from here.

The central part of the hotel already has been destroyed and the flames still are spreading.

Panic raged as several hundred guests began to throw their belongings, gems, clothing and treasures from the window of the hotel.

A 4:45 the entire central portion of the hotel had been gutted and the guests were surging about the hotel grounds, helpless to render aid to the firemen from Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, who were hurried to the scene of disaster.

Some of the most socially prominent people of the United States are here as guests at the Breakers.

The Breakers is a flimsy structure of wood construction, but it housed the richest and most exclusive of Palm Beach's winter guests.

It was said that the more desirable suites were engaged, years in advance, and the prices charged for them were commensurate with their desirability.

The hotel stands on the edge of the ocean, and in its drawing rooms and gardens the most gorgeous balls of the season were given.

Annapolis, Mo., 111 Miles South of St. Louis, Said to Have Been Virtually Wiped Out.

MANY INJURED AT DE SOTO, ILL.

Information From Varying Sources of 1500 Persons Being Left Homeless in Wind-Swept Section.

A storm of tornado-like nature struck Annapolis, Mo., 111 miles south of St. Louis, at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon, and is reported to have killed at least one person and injured many others and to have virtually destroyed the town.

The storm moved east and struck De Soto, Ill., which is south of Centralia, about 3 p. m., and it was reported that several persons were killed there and many injured.

It was reported that general fire broke out in the wreckage at Annapolis after the storm subsided. The man reported killed was Stewart.

It was declared that only three buildings were left standing after the intensity of the wind was spent, and one of these burned afterwards.

This information was obtained by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials in long-distance conversation with C. E. Pyrtle, a Kansas City traveling man, at Ironton, 20 miles north of Annapolis.

Pyrtle drove from Annapolis to Ironton to obtain medical assistance. He said that Stewart was killed by a flying object and that numerous other persons suffered fractures of arms and legs. Three buildings which remained standing were the school, a garage and a bungalow, he said, and after a sick woman had been rescued from the bungalow, that structure broke out in flames from an overturned stove.

Sleet, rain, sleet and a tornado wind combined in the storm.

There were unconfirmed reports that a number of residents of Annapolis were killed.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad sent physicians to the town in several ways, four from Piedmont, on a "light" engine; one on a track motor car, and three by train from Poplar Bluff. Red Cross officials prepared to send aid from St. Louis, also.

The last census gave the population of Annapolis as about 200, but reports from Missouri Pacific employees stated that about 1500 persons had been made homeless by the storm. This may include an area larger than the one town. Food and shelter were lacking, communications by wire were broken off and roads were made somewhat difficult to travel by the storm.

Freight Cars Blown Over. A number of freight cars on a siding in the town were blown over. The Missouri Pacific track to the north was reported blocked by wreckage. Surface property of the Annapolis Lead Co. mines was destroyed.

An operator of the Missouri Pacific at Hogan, 11 miles north of Annapolis, told the road's superintendent of telegraphs that several persons were killed at Annapolis, and that most of the buildings were destroyed. His information, he said, came from an automobile load of excited persons who had driven through Hogan from Annapolis.

Hall Breaks Train Windows. A telegram from the conductor of a northbound Missouri Pacific local train, sent from Arcadia, related that the storm broke just as his train, No. 32, was passing through Annapolis. Seven coach windows and the windows in the rear vestibule of the train were broken by hail, and the roof of a house close to the tracks was blown off by the high wind, narrowly missing the train.

SINCLAIR BEGINS FIGHT TO RETAIN THE TEAPOT LEASE

Littleton Expresses "Gratitude" of Client at Being in Court after "Hunt in Senatorial Jungles."

ASSERTS CONTRACT WAS JUSTIFIED

Refusal of Son-in-Law to Testify Causes U. S. to Rest Case Without Calling Fall to Stand.

By the Associated Press. CHETENNE, Wyo., March 18.—The statement of Martin W. Littleton of defense counsel, depositional testimony of Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, head of the Navy Bureau of Engineering, and testimony of J. W. Zevely, attorney for Harry P. Sinclair, before the Senate oil committee in 1923 regarding a loan by Zevely to Sinclair's direction, of $25,000 to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, made up the record of the defense in the Teapot Dome suit here today.

This was the first of the defense side of the case to be presented. The Government having rested its case yesterday afternoon.

Admiral Robinson's deposition dealt with circumstances surrounding his appointment as officer in charge of all naval petroleum reserves. This official order was forthcoming on Oct. 18, 1921, he said, and Commander H. A. Stuart, who previously had been charged with the work, was retained on his staff at Admiral Robinson's request.

Admiral Robinson got into immediate touch with Fall, Edward C. Finney, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Dr. H. Foster Bain, head of the Bureau of Mines, Arthur A. Ambrose, Government petroleum technologist, as an emissary of the Secretary of the Navy, Denby, he testified.

Addressing his remarks to Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy, who is presiding at the case, which the Government seeks annulment of the Teapot Dome lease on the ground of a conspiracy between Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, Littleton said:

"Whatever happens to us here under the reasoned experience of men who have devoted themselves to the cause of justice, we shall accept and we shall not complain. Here, whatever of clamor remains, it is stilling; we hear the cry of the jack no more."

Explains Government's Policy. Littleton then launched into an explanation of administration policy in 1921 toward the leasing of the oil reserves and the justification for such action.

Littleton said he would call "From the household of the plaintiff" three witnesses to disprove the Government's charge that the lease was executed not in the interest of the United States. These, he said, are Rear-Admiral J. K. Robinson, chief of the Navy Bureau of Engineering, H. Foster Bain, head of the Bureau of Mines, and A. W. Ambrose, Bureau of Mines technologist.

He further declared after an investigation of the case by Bain and Ambrose, early in 1921, a conference in Washington on their findings resulted in the determination among Government officials that the oil in Teapot Dome must be made available for use of the navy at strategic points on the Atlantic coast.

Government Rests, Contending It Has Proved Conspiracy Falsified. The Government's case rested with the contention that it had proved the existence of a conspiracy between Fall and Sinclair.

The refusal of M. T. Everhart, Pueblo (Colo.) rancher, to testify caused Government counsel to rest its case without calling the former Cabinet official to the stand.

"If I had been able to have cleared any information from Everhart connecting Fall with the passage of bonds between Sinclair and himself, I would have called him immediately and put the direct question to him as a matter of record," Owen J. Roberts said. "Otherwise there was no reason for placing Fall under oath. I have no desire to call him just merely to see him take the stand."

The moment the Government rested, J. W. Lacey of counsel for the Mammoth Oil Co. asked the Court to wipe out of the record all evidence regarding the alleged passage of Liberty Bonds from the Continental Trading Co., said by the Government to have been organized for the benefit of Sinclair and others, to Fall, on the ground that nothing in the Government's evidence had connected Sinclair or the Mammoth Oil Co. with the Liberty Bond transactions.

Defense Objection Overruled. Lacey's objection was overruled when he made the statement in reply to a question by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy, that the defense would be willing to stand on the record made in the Government's side of the case and take chances on the Government's evidence failing to convince the Court of any connection between the Liberty Bonds and Sinclair.

WIFE SURPRISED THEM

ANN LUTHER.

SCREEN 'VAMP' TRAPS HUSBAND WITH WOMAN
Dagmar Godowsky Finds Ann Luther in Frank Mayo's Rooms; Asks for Divorce.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 18.—Dagmar Godowsky, screen "vamp," staged a surprise party for her husband, Frank Mayo, also a movie star, in the latter's apartment at 39 East Thirty-eighth street, early yesterday morning. As a result of surprise, Mayo was served with papers for an absolute divorce late yesterday afternoon. Miss Godowsky names Ann Luther, wife of Ed Gallagher, as co-respondent.

About 12:30 yesterday morning Dagmar descended on the apartment which her husband had been occupying for the last month or so. Accompanying Miss Godowsky were Helen Stanley, a debutante, Hedda Connor, a writer, Lou Heusterey and Daniel F. Carey, detective, and a woman detective.

Breaks Down Door. According to Dagmar's story, her party opened the door of Mayo's apartment by breaking it down.

In one corner of the room, says Miss Godowsky, she saw her husband dressed in nothing more than a bathrobe. And by the window which overlooks a courtyard, Dagmar says she found Ann Luther hastily fastening her dress. Her jewels were on a nearby table.

Miss Luther told a story essentially different from Dagmar's. "I've known Frank Mayo for more than nine years," she said, "and we've always been good friends. Recently he became ill from overwork, and early this morning as any friend would do for another I called on him at his apartment. It was about 11 o'clock. Suddenly there came a terrific pounding at the door of Frank's apartment."

"I heard screams and yells and howls and my first thought was of robbers. Rushing to the window I threw up the lower sash and called for the police. I was terribly frightened and I tore off my sewing and put them on a table behind me."

"And then the door crashed and I saw Dagmar Godowsky standing there with a number of others. Immediately I realized what had happened. Rushing past them, I ran downstairs to the janitor's apartment in order that he might see that I was fully clothed. This thing is an outrage and I will fight for my rights until I have been cleared."

CROWD AT SUNRISE WAITS FOR LONDON SCANDAL TRIAL

Court Unsuccessful in Effort to Get Widow to Withdraw Charge Against Titled Woman.

LONDON, March 18.—The coincidence of two scandalous trials running simultaneously in the law courts resulted in remarkable scenes around the famous old buildings in the lower Strand today. Crowds gathered at daylight for a chance of seeing the principals of getting into the court rooms.

Justice Sherman again advised attorneys for Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse to withdraw her suit against Lady Wilson-Barker and others, whom she charges with conspiring over a period of 14 years to extort large sums of money from her late husband, Alfred Francis Waterhouse.

Justice Sherman declared yesterday that "the mere mention of this case is a scandal" and repeatedly urged the attorneys to take action outside the courts as a matter of public policy. His advice fell on deaf ears and today further evidence was submitted by the plaintiff to prove that Lady Wilson-Barker, pretended to be a victim of a blackmail and repeatedly obtained sums ranging up to £2000 ($10,000) to prevent the blackmail from divulging misconduct between her and Alfred Francis Waterhouse.

Sir David Wilson-Barker, retired naval captain, is made co-defendant in the restitution suit, on the ground that he was responsible for his wife's actions, although not charged himself with being an actual party to the alleged blackmail. The sum it is charged was extorted is set forth as having been upwards of £10,000. Another defendant is R. P. Sheldon, who is charged as a "tool" of Lady Wilson-Barker.

The deceased statement of the old Waterhouse butler, William Thomas Mills, concerning the relations of Waterhouse and Lady Wilson-Barker was read today.

"Behaved Like Lovers." "Her ladyship and Mr. Waterhouse behaved like lovers," said the statement. "Their misconduct, probably went on for 10 years."

There was a chafed behind the Waterhouse home, the statement said, and Lady Wilson-Barker and Waterhouse often spent much time there, Mills said.

The appearance of the principals in the case is in strange contrast to the evidence. Sir David's outward men is that of a grandfather. Sheldon, the third co-defendant, 74 years old and with the beard of a patriarch, hobbled to his seat in the court when the session started.

Lady Wilson-Barker and Mrs. Waterhouse look like sedate matrons. Mills' deceased testimony described Waterhouse as a "dangerous man with women." Mrs. Waterhouse's counsel said one of the pages of Mills' statement contained a reflection on the plaintiff's character, but that he was prepared to prove it unfounded.

Mills' statement said Lady Wilson-Barker was 45 years old when the alleged intrigue started.

Other Testimony. Sir Herbert Waterhouse, noted surgeon and cousin of Francis Waterhouse, said that Francis suffered from an aggravated type of rheumatism and for many years was almost a helpless cripple.

Richard M. Sowton, a solicitor, testified that while Waterhouse originally enjoyed an income of more than £1800 annually, he died insolvent.

Testimony of Butler Taken on His Deathbed. Spectators gazed yesterday when it was stated that the principal evidence against Lady Wilson-Barker, that of the Waterhouse butler who had served the family 31 years, was taken on his deathbed. The aged mother's maid and another servant, who were in the service of the Waterhouse family 40 and 35 years respectively, also will be called.

Waterhouse's mother died in 1903 and Waterhouse inherited a life income of £2000 a year.

HIS 'RIGHT TRUSTY' COUNSELLORS TO CARRY ON FOR KING

George V. About to Depart on Health Trip, Commends Realm to Council.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, March 18.—King George departs tomorrow on the southern trip prescribed by his physicians. Accompanied by Queen Mary, he will go to Dover, thence cross to Calais, where the party will board the British royal train. Arriving at Genoa on Friday, they will embark on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, under the escort of two British destroyers. The itinerary probably will include visits to the Islands of Malta and Majorca and it is stated that the King will witness the British naval maneuvers off the latter place.

The appointment of a special commission to care for the business of state while he is away has almost an air of novelty, and the newspapers print the quaint official announcement issued from the palace yesterday in antiquated, medieval phraseology.

"For diverse causes and considerations," it said, the King instructed his "right trusty" and well-beloved counselors, Prince Henry, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount Cave and Premier Baldwin, to look after the safety and good government of the realm during his absence, empowering them to do anything that appears necessary and expedient to them except dissolve Parliament or confer ranks and titles.

FRICKER'S SECOND TRIAL FOR NUNGESSER KILLING MARCH 30

Two murder trials yesterday were set for hearing in the Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville. The second trial of Emil Fricker, Highland farmer, for the murder of John Nungesser, will begin March 30. At the trial several weeks ago the jury was unable to reach an agreement.

The other trial is that of Lewis McLean of Alton for the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Lindley Harrison, who died March 15. The trial will begin April 5.

MILLER'S PLURALITY 13,071

Official Count of Ballots in G. O. P. Primary Completed. The official count of ballots in the Republican primary primary last Friday was completed by the Board of Election Commissioners today. It shows that Victor J. Miller defeated his nearest competitor for the nomination, Louis P. Aloe, by a plurality of 13,071.

The count follows: Miller, 27,576; Aloe, 14,499; Grimm, 27,511; Hall, 2361; and Duckman, 744. Compromise and defeat for the two candidates, without an opponent, polled 132,333 votes. The official count of the Democratic primary will begin at once.

Shoals Commission Blocked. WASHINGTON, March 18.—A move to call up a resolution by Senator McKellar to create a commission of four Senators to work out a peace of disposing of the Government properties at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, was blocked today in the Senate by objection of Senator Jones (Rep.) of Washington.

Despondent Printer Slashes Throat. Despondent because of illness and failure to find employment, Jasper N. Mark, 53 years old, a printer, cut a piece of his throat with a sliver of his razor today at 214 South Fourth street, today and slashed his throat with a razor. He was taken to city hospital in a serious condition.

In addition he had securities worth between $50,000 and $60,000. At the time he was becoming crippled with arthritis, and the story to be revealed in court, the lawyer said, would show how Lady Wilson-Barker, who alleged help from Sheldon, "stripped him of every farthing with which he could part," so that he died insolvent.

Some letters were read, and others the court ordered postponed, in support of the prosecution claim. Then counsel took up the claim that after the death of Waterhouse, in February, 1922, and when his widow had commenced the action against Lady Wilson-Barker for restitution, the latter first dragged out the legal formalities as long as possible and then shammed insanity.

CHINESE WINS RACE TO PURCHASE "LARGEST PEARL"

Record-Size Jewel Found in South Pacific Is Shot With Green and Golden Hues.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. PAPAETE, Tahiti, Feb. 14.—What undoubtedly is the largest and most valuable pearl ever discovered in the South Pacific was brought ashore from the Gambier Islands in January. Its weight is 26½ carats. The coloring is very brilliant, with green and golden hues predominating. One hemisphere of the pearl is marked by a distinct, iridescent band, which gives the jewel, on that side, somewhat the appearance of the planet Saturn encompassed by its rings.

When the news of the finding of this pearl reached Tahiti, the European buyers who make Papeete their headquarters during the diving season, chartered schooners to take them to Gambier, distant nearly 1000 miles, only to find on their arrival there that the pearl was at sea in the possession of a Chinese trader, who had purchased it from the native diver and was bringing it to Tahiti. The price paid to the native is said to have been 110,000 francs. Experts at Papeete who have examined the jewel appraise its value at from 500,000 to 600,000 francs (approximately $25,000).

Nominated to Be Assistant to the Attorney-General to Succeed A. T. Seymour.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 18.—William J. Donovan of New York, now serving as Assistant Attorney-General, was nominated today by President Coolidge to be assistant to the Attorney-General, a post of higher rank now held by A. T. Seymour of Ohio, who has resigned.

Solicitor-General James M. Beck, who ranks next to the Attorney-General in the Department of Justice, is understood to have been trying to get me out of $1500.

"And do you still think it was someone other than Dr. North?" "I sure do. I don't think Dr. North knew a thing about it."

Sitton said he did not return to school after 1923, since a bill passed by the Legislature had made students of the college ineligible for examination for license to practice medicine in Missouri.

Later in the morning after other witnesses had been heard Sitton was recalled and asked by Motion Jordan, special counsel for the board, if he had not been expelled from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1923.

"No, I wasn't," Sitton replied. "But you were charged with an offense weren't you?" Jordan insisted. "What was it?"

"I don't answer," Jordan said. "I demand an answer," Jordan said.

Denies He Was Expelled. "Well, I won't convict myself. I refuse to testify against myself," Sitton said, and then apparently reconsidering said: "I'll tell you. The charge was attempted rape. But I was not expelled."

Dr. W. C. Leam of East St. Louis, a member of the Board of Trustees of the school who was the next witness, told the Board of Health that the trustees had found insufficient evidence against Sitton to expel him.

Sitton's scholastic record at the school was apparently in the same muddle as many of the other records. The record credited him with graduation from a St. Joseph high school and with one semester at Grinnell College. He testified he had graduated from Clayton High School, and had never attended a high school in St. Joseph or Grinnell College.

Tells of Saving Sintzel's Life. While Sitton ascribed a mutual interest in crime shooting as one of the bonds between himself and Sintzel, Stephen Byron Cabela of Chicago, another witness, said it was a little matter of saving Sintzel's life that endeared him to Sintzel and induced the then secretary of the school to reveal many secrets.

"It was at Memphis in the summer of 1922," Cabela said. "Sintzel was bringing up a boat to school at Jefferson and Gambier."

Graft Charges Against Accuser of Dr. Briggs

Here the witness identified as similar to the books, two ledgers and a smaller book which have been introduced in evidence at the hearing. The books constitute most of the records of the school and witnesses testified yesterday that they had been mutilated and that parts of many pages were missing.

Offered License, Too, He Says. "After school closed, in 1923, I went back home," the witness continued, under questioning by Maroney, "and in June of that year I received a letter from Joe asking me to come to St. Louis. Joe met me when I arrived and took me to the school office."

"It's foolish for you to go on here at school," he told me. "You're wasting your time. I can get you your degree for a matter of $1500 and I can get you a license to practice along with it."

"I didn't believe the part about the license to practice, and told him so, but he said he could handle things all right with the State Board of Health."

"I sure can," he said, "I'll call up Dr. North now." So he went over to the pay phone on the wall and called a number."

The Dr. North to whom the witness referred is Dr. Emmett F. North, president of the State Board of Health, who is presiding at the trial of Dr. Briggs.

"After a few minutes," the witness continued, "someone answered and Joe asked for Dr. North. There was a short pause and then he said: 'Hello, is this Dr. North? Well, I've got a prospect. How about it? There was another pause and then Joe said 'All right and hung up.'"

"Then Joe turned to me and said that everything was O. K., but I didn't accept his proposition."

"Why not?" asked Maroney. "Didn't you believe he had talked to Dr. North?"

"I certainly did not. I thought he called up someone and faked the conversation. I figured he was trying to get me out of $1500."

ANCIENT KING'S NAME ON MAT
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 18.—The name of Seneferu or Seneferu, ancient Egyptian King, appears on a gold mat in the tomb recently discovered by the Harvard-Boston expedition at Gizeh, Dr. George A. Reisner, director of the expedition, has been informed by those in charge of the excavations. In a statement issued today, Dr. Reisner said:

"Before sealing the new tomb discovered at Gizeh by the Harvard-Boston expedition, the inscription on the gold mat was clearly read as follows: 'Lord of the two-crooks Seneferu, the glorious web-mat'. The name of the person buried in the coffin remains unknown. The presence of the name of Seneferu on the mat does not prove that this King was buried in the tomb, but only that the burial was made in his reign. The conclusion that the tomb is not that of Seneferu of Cheops is not affected by the new evidence."

St. Louis for Dr. Briggs and I was helping. While we were stranded on a sandbar Sintzel pushed too hard with a pole and fell overboard into the current. I jumped in and saved him."

It was thus that Cabela explained alleged confidences of Sintzel in which he said Sintzel declared that "Dr. Briggs should have a guardian and I'd like to be the one to take charge of him."

Similarly, Cabela said, Sintzel wanted to get Dr. Clara McGrew, then in charge of the books, out of the school.

Quotes Sintzel in Graft. "I could handle those books and make a lot of money," he quoted Sintzel as saying.

He testified that Sintzel discussed freely his relations with Adeox, asserting to Cabela that he could "Jew Adeox down" in his prices for fake credentials. Cabela declared Sintzel boasted he could get licenses to practice medicine in Missouri or Colorado for $500 each. He said that Sintzel also told of buying fake credentials from Sachs and testified that on one occasion he saw a student hand $50 to Sintzel after asking Sintzel to "fix up" his scholastic credits.

The first objection on the stand today was Dr. Lillie. In cross-examination Lillie admitted he knew of no instances of students having flunked in their examinations at the school while he was there as a student or faculty member.

Lillie said that during his senior year he was a salesman for a drug house and paid his tuition to the school in drugs by agreement with the firm by which he was employed.

P. and S. College Records Described as Chaotic by Secretary. The chaotic condition of the records of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, the lack of regular practice in marking the grades of students and the apparent general laxity with which the institution was operated, were brought out yesterday afternoon in testimony of Dr. Lillie, who occupied the witness stand during the entire afternoon.

Despite the fact that he has no license to practice medicine, Lillie admitted freely that he had been practicing for 25 years, in fact, ever since his completion of his freshman year in medical school. Despite the fact that that was in 1900, he only got his degree in 1923, pursuing the course at odd times. Meanwhile he worked, he said, as a newspaper reporter, a salesman, printer and publisher of a political daily.

Lillie admitted destroying attendance cards of the school for no apparent reason and naively confessed crediting class hours to students "on estimate." Under cross-examination he testified that he estimates he credited himself with 1114 class hours in one year, the highest credit given any student.

"I admit I was trying to fix things up for myself," he said. "And anyhow, I had done some of the senior work before."

Lillie declared that Dr. Sintzel, the former secretary of P. and S. College, had tried to sell him fraudulent college degrees while Lillie was a student in 1923. The witness said he had refused the offer.

During the afternoon many students' names and records were read.

COMPLAINT AGAINST THREE MEN HELD AFTER EXPLOSION TRAPS 34 IN MINE

Judges and Clerks Said Have Counted Ballots Before Proper Time.

A complaint that judges and clerks in the second round of the Twenty-eighth Ward primary election violated the election laws by counting ballots at 2 p. m. of waiting until the polls closed at 7 p. m., will be given a hearing at 10 a. m. tomorrow before the Board of Election Commissioners.

Election Commissioner said the complaint was made by Mrs. Ida Dorsey of 3187 West Main avenue, and Mrs. M. M. ends, Republican Ward Committee woman, who stated that the improper counting, taking place at 455 E. Baltimore, Alderman Fred C. Twenty-eighth Ward, was asking for the industry.

Wilson said he counted judges and clerks Friday, complaint had been taken up by officials, that they counted at 2 o'clock "because they wanted to get through early." They said they were busy at one operating a radio in the long place.

Wilson said the hearing today would determine what if any would be taken against officials involved. The judges assigned to the place are Victor N. 5785 Kingshighway, Clarence M. Well, 5745 Kingshighway, and H. M. McPherson, 5741 Kingshighway, and Fred C. White Jr., 5741 Pherson avenue.

MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN
Address Clutched in His Hand. Not in City Directory.

An unidentified man, about 30 years old, who appeared to be a laborer, was found dead in the Wabasha Railway station north of St. Charles last morning. He had suffered a fracture and internal injuries, it is thought he was struck by a train last night.

He clutched in his hand a paper bearing the address Junata avenue, which was not shown in a street directory.

Into the report of the police among these was the fact that Charles Claire Palmer, who confessed complicity in the Clinton typhus case in 1923, was among the men.

28 Horses Found Dead. M. Lambie, chief mine inspector of West Virginia and a companion, were the first to go down. They pushed their way past debris to the stable where the horses were kept. All the 36 horses were dead. Then they went into one of the headframes. The air was bad, they said. While not definitely determined, it was believed to have caused the explosion and late last night mine superintendent Benton Mitchell said he did not believe any of the horses were alive.

The mine opened on a non-basis last October and employed about 250 men. Those killed were coal cutters and helpers of the night shift.

Explosion. Last night's explosion was the deadliest within the mine in less than 10 years. On Oct. 1, 1916, a gas explosion killed 10 men. The mine was equipped with every modern safety device at that time and it was not until Monday by a deputy inspector who examined it, that the fact that Lambie and his companion could find no trace of the explosion was determined. It was in operation for a number of years and had extended more than a half mile from the shaft. It was thought none of the cutters, never more than half a mile from the shaft, had been killed by the explosion.

It was reported that the mine had been damaged inside and that the workers would today wired through the shattered passageways.

New Union Sends $500 for Relief Work Among Families. DIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 18.—The International Union of Miners of America today wired to William A. Bittner, president of the International Union of Miners of America, to be used for relief work among families of the miners killed in the explosion last night. "In the disaster, the International Union does not ask whether the miners are union or non-union," said Bittner, editor of the "Miners' Journal," said.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 18.—Three men were placed under arrest today in connection with the explosion of Mine 41 of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation in which 34 men were entombed. Their arrest followed the report of a possibility that the disaster had been caused by the explosion of a bomb. The report was denied last night and it was said that an accumulation of gas was believed to have caused the explosion. Officers declared, however, that sufficient evidence had been given in the report to cause the arrest of W. D. G. Kendall, who they are being held in the county jail pending further investigation. No specific charges have been placed against the men. The mine has been operating on a non-basis since last September. A hundred or more men were employed in the mine at the time of the explosion. The explosion occurred at 10:30 p. m. and killed 34 men. The explosion was the deadliest within the mine in less than 10 years. On Oct. 1, 1916, a gas explosion killed 10 men. The mine was equipped with every modern safety device at that time and it was not until Monday by a deputy inspector who examined it, that the fact that Lambie and his companion could find no trace of the explosion was determined. A motorcycle isn't a closed car

Mr. Votta, Jr., got painful cough—relieved by REM when other medicines failed

The driver of a motorcycle is riding in the teeth of a stiff gale all the time, and in raw, changeable weather he's apt to get a cough.

Mr. Frank L. Votta, Jr., 2025 Wilhelm St., Baltimore, drives a motorcycle in connection with his work, and he got a cough a while ago that hurt him through and through.

Then he saw REM advertised and you can guess what happened.

"I think I caught cold riding my motorcycle last winter and I got a cough from it that lasted several days," said Mr. Votta.

"It made me feel pretty miserable—it hurt right through to my back when I coughed. It was a real dry tight cough and the medicines I was using didn't help any."

"I saw about REM in the papers so I got a bottle at Read's and started taking it. By the next day already my cough was much better. I took two bottles in all, and my cough was gone."

REM'S quick action in so many cases is largely due to a special ingredient (too expensive for old-style slower-acting cough syrups) that makes REM cling to your throat as it is swallowed. And there it quickly begins its work of quieting the cough.

What's more, REM is pleasant to take. Ask your druggist for it and accept no other—you can tell REM by the blue package with the round orange label.

You can have your money back if you want it—but you won't!

LEVIATHAN PURSER HELD FOR DIAMOND SMUGGLING ATTEMPT

Arrested at New York Charged With Bringing in Stones Valued at $50,000.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 13.—Victor de Caro, purser of the Leviathan, was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempting to smuggle unset diamonds valued at approximately $50,000. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Boyle and after waiving examination was remanded to the Tombs to await action of the grand jury upon failure to furnish $40,000 bail.

Customs officials declared that the alleged smuggling attempt was the most flagrant violation of recent years. They expressed the belief that De Caro was a carrier for an Antwerp merchant, and that he probably intended to dispose of the diamonds in New York. De Caro's statement to Commissioner Boyle that he believed the diamonds had been lost on the Leviathan by Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the Governor, while en route to France recently, was discredited by Government officials.

TAILOR, IN ILL HEALTH, SHOOTS SELF AT HOME

George Roth, 52, in Critical Condition at Hospital—Has Wife and Four Children.

George Roth, 52 years old, a tailor at 514 Pine street, shot himself in the head with a revolver in the bedroom of his home, 3820 Iowa avenue, at 8:30 p. m. yesterday, a short time after he had returned home. His wife, Mary, their four children and a neighbor were in the kitchen of the home at the time.

Roth was taken to city hospital unconscious. His condition is critical. The wife told police her husband had been suffering from a nervous disorder that impaired his health and that when he came home he refused to eat, telling her that he was too ill, and went into the bedroom to lie down. They heard a shot a few minutes later and found him on the floor with a revolver beside him.

ACID IN STOMACH
SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

A SUGGESTION FOR MOTHERS: USE A POST-DISPATCH HELP WANT AD TO SECURE HELP NEEDED FOR HOME CLEANING.

PART OF FOUNDATION LAID FOR 13-STORY ROXANA BUILDING

Digging With Steam Shovel Began Three Weeks Ago and Was Carried on Day and Night.

Excavation is virtually complete and part of the foundation is being laid for the 13-story Roxana Building at Thirteenth and Locust streets.

Digging with a steam shovel began three weeks ago. Soft clay was encountered unexpectedly at one time, and work was carried on in three eight-hour shifts, day and night, for several days, so that the progress would be at the same stage in every part of the excavation. Uniformly hard clay was reached at about 20 feet below the sidewalk, however, and some of the 45 "spread footings" of reinforced concrete, which will support columns, already have been laid.

The hardness of the clay, permitting use of the spread footings, makes it unnecessary to sink piers to bedrock. That process has encountered grave obstacles in preliminary for the other downtown buildings when the diggers struck quicksand.

Record in Freight Car Loading.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 13.—A new record in the loading of revenue freight was established by the railroads during the week ending March 7, when 920,000 cars were loaded. This total, the American Railway Association announced, exceeded by 628 cars the number loaded the same week last year by 24,665, the total for that week in 1923 and by 67,099 those loaded the week ending last Feb. 28. Except for livestock, coke and ore, increases were reported in the loading of all commodities.

New Spring Wash Frocks

Cotton crepes, handmade to exacting measurements and patterns for our representatives in Porto Rico.

Rows of tiny tucks and hand-drawn work give slenderizing lines, and Irish pattern edgings add to their daintiness.

Collar and cuffs of white for contrast and edged with Irish pattern lace for daintiness—make one very attractive style.

$2⁸⁵

Sizes 36 to 44

French knots on both collars and cuffs give a pretty touch to still another style that boasts of much hand-drawn work, in a decidedly pretty pattern.

Collars and cuffs of eyelet embroidery—very crisp and dainty looking—do much to make another good-looking group.

Hand-drawn work in a criss-cross pattern is just decorative enough to make this simple style one of the prettiest.

TURN HAIR DARK
WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmoth-er's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

U. S. WORLD FLYER TO LEARN
HOW TO PILOT AN AIRPLANE

Sergeant Ogden, Who Flew Around the World, Goes to Selfridge Field to Become Lieutenant.

By the Associated Press.

SELFLEDGE FIELD, Mich., March 18.—Technical Sergeant Henry H. Ogden, who flew around the world, is going to learn to pilot an airplane. The man who was the flight mechanic aboard the ill-fated plane Boston, of the army world flight fleet, has come back to Selfridge Field to accept his commission as a Second Lieutenant in the army air service. The commission is a reward for meritorious service in connection with the world flight.

Lieut. Ogden was the mechanic on the plane piloted by Lieut. Leigh Wade, which was forced down in the North Atlantic. The two men were picked up by the U. S. S. Richmond and landed at Picton, N. S., where they continued the flight in the Boston No. 2. Lieut. Ogden is regarded as an expert in aeronautical mechanics and has an occasional pilot's license. The course in the flying school is required before he may become an accredited pilot.

THEY SAY IT WITH FLOWERS

Dutch Foreign Nostalgia Amusements for Annual Show.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

AMSTERDAM, March 18.—No noisy amusements disturb quiet contemplation at the international spring flower show which has just opened here.

Heemstede, a suburb of Haarlem, is the center of Dutch bulb culture. The exhibition is a picturesque flower fete in which all horticultural organizations in Holland participate. Horticulture is one of Holland's chief industries, more than 145,000 acres being devoted to gardening.

The Netherlands, however, is best known for the cultivation of tulips, hyacinths and narcissi. Twelve thousand acres in Holland are devoted to bulb cultivation and yearly exports—the United States is still the best customer—amount to 30,000,000 guilders (normally $12,000,000).

COMPLAINT AGAINST GOUNIS

IS DATED ONE YEAR LATE

Liquor Charges, Dismissed on Technicality, to Be Reinstated, Asstant Prosecutor Says.
A charge against Peter Gounis,
former Meramec Highlands resort keeper, of possession and sale of liquor was dismissed today in Justice of the Peace Stecker's court after it was discovered that it was dated July 16, 1924, when it should have been dated a year earlier to conform to the alleged offense.
Paul Miller, second assistant Prosecuting Attorney, said a new information would be drawn. Gounis was characterized by a county grand jury as one of four notorious county law-violators.

$4,600,000 FOR CHICAGO U.

Gifts to the University Are Announced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 18.—Gifts to the University of Chicago totaling $4,678,038 were announced here at the spring convocation of the university. Although the university's campaign to raise $17,500,000 during the year does not officially start until March 24, more than one-fourth of the entire amount sought has been pledged or conditionally subscribed.

Of the $4,678,038 total, $2,000,- 000 was announced as pledged by the General Education Board, upon condition that $4,000,000 more be raised, to constitute a fund of $6,- 000,000 for endowment of instruction and research. Gifts aggregating $1,671,800 toward this endowment fund were announced from trustees of the university, while $312,475 for the same purpose was disclosed as having been pledged by the alumni of the Chicago metropolitan district, as the first step toward $2,000,000 set as a goal for the entire alumni body. Gifts by the public totaling $693,763 were announced.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the naussalese Calomet tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style cal-met, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time
with a swallow of water—that's all.
No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the vest-pocket size; thirty-five cents for the large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists.
Your money back if you are not satisfied.

All Foods are Better

All foods improve when served in tempting ways. For to tempt
the appetite is to start digestion properly.
With all fish and meats and many vegetables, a lemon garnish should be used. It adds tang and zest. Digestive glands are at once excited and their juices flow.
The lemon juice supplies vita-mines and organic salts and acids which are direct digestive aids.
An excess of fish and meat forms acid in the blood. Lemon juice, though known as "acid"
fruit, has an alkaline reaction to offset "acidity" from other foods.
Get a dozen California lemons
now for garnishing. Practically seedless. Clean, bright, waxy skins, easiest to peel. Just fresh the year 'round at all stores.

An Extra Gasoline Tax of from 6 to 20 Cents Per Gallon

Your gasoline bills run into real money.

But have you ever stopped to figure how much of this is in the form of an incredibly high gasoline tax?

Let's see what happens when you leave the Concrete Highway and take
to a gravel or a dirt road.

Conclusive tests have proved that a gallon of gasoline will carry you only two thirds as far on a gravel road as on a Concrete Road. On a dirt road a gallon of gasoline will carry you only half as far as on Concrete.

With gasoline at twenty cents a gallon, you would thus pay a gasoline tax of more than 6 cents per gallon on the gravel road and 20 cents a gallon on the dirt road.

These are figures you can't get away from. You can prove them yourself.

And remember that every time you travel on either a dirt or a gravel road
you also increase wear and tear on tires
and run up your general repair bills.

Why continue to pay these high taxes
and get nothing in return but the discomfort and inconvenience of unpaved roads and streets?

Let your local officials know you want an adequate system of Concrete Roads and Streets. They are just as willing to build them as you are anxious to get them.

But they must have your support.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocodile that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, crocodile is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocodile, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocodile goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

ARGENTINE HORSES TO RUN
1000-MILE ENDURANCE RACE

Series of Runs to Determine Stamina of English and Pampas Breeds.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 20.—A horse race of 1000 miles has been organized here to determine the vexed question of whether the native Argentine horse, or criollo, has a superior stamina. The pampas bred animal's resistance to fatigue has become proverbial, and many remarkable feats of endurance accomplished by horses of this breed are on record. Nevertheless, in a series of 12-hour races run over the Palermo race track last year, the winners usually turned out to be horses possessing one or more crosses of foreign thoroughbred blood. In covering, roughly, 120 miles in 12 hours, these horses undoubtedly displayed extraordinary stamina and, although the admirers of the criollo are the first to admit the fact, they contend that the trial was not severe enough to test the endurance of their favorites.

Dr. Emilio Solanet, a breeder of criollo horses, has issued a challenge to run two animals of that breed against two horses of any other pure blood whatever, over a distance of 1000 miles, the competitors to carry a weight equal to that of a cavalry soldier with his equipment. His challenge has been taken up by Agustin de Ella, who will run two thoroughbred horses descended from the English racer Bonnie Dundee, which was imported by Senor de Ella's grandfather more than 70 years ago. The race will take place in April.

PERU REPORTS REVOLUTIONISTS
Recent Manifestations Laid to Such Groups.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, March 18.—La Prensa, Peruvian governmental organ, is quoted by La Nación, Lima correspondent as asserting that the recent manifestations in Peru were the outcome of the activities of a group of revolutionists, some of whose leaders were arrested. "The revolutionists," the newspaper published a circular alleged to have been directed by the "revolutionary committee" to the bank managers notifying them that henceforth the committee would not recognize any credit operation involving the properties of persons prominent in President Leguia's party.

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH BEATING WOMAN IN TAXICAB

Prisoners Deny They Pushed Divorce Case Witness Into Machine and Struck Her.

Miss Annette McKinney, 29 years old, of 4150 McPherson, avenue, last night caused the arrest of two men who she said forced her into a taxicab and beat her severely with their fists.

The men—Andrew Kiene, 27, and Roy Deckerhoff, 32—were arrested at their home, 4441 Laclede avenue, and furnished bond on an assault charge, denying Miss McKinney's allegations. She declared the attack was prompted by the fact that she was a witness for Deckerhoff's wife in a divorce action.

Miss McKinney said Kiene accosted her at 7:45 p. m. in the 4200 block on Westminster place, and engaged her in conversation while a taxicab drew up to the curb. Deckerhoff appeared and the two men pushed her into the cab, ordering the driver to go to Forest Park, she said. Deckerhoff threatened her, she declared, and both men beat her until her screams caused the chauffeur to stop on Forest Park boulevard. Then they pushed her into the street and drove away, she said.

Both Deckerhoff and Kiene denied they had seen Miss McKinney last night.

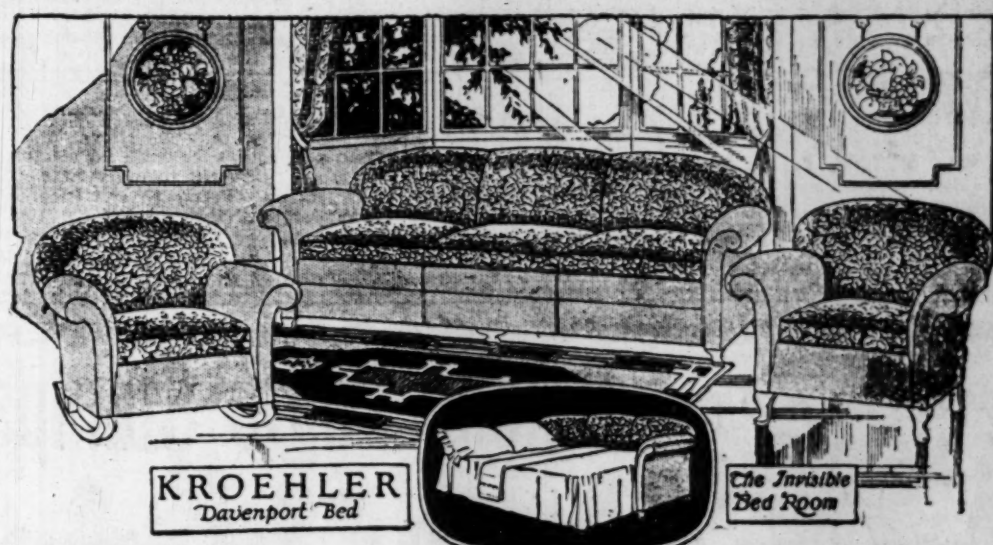

BRANDS FATHER 'LOVE PIRATE'

Philadelphia Seeks $10,000 for Theft of Wife's Affections.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Judge Monaghan has issued a warrant for the arrest of George Jackson, 38 years old, in the $10,000 damage suit of George F. Jackson, his son, who calls his father a "wicked old love pirate."

The son alleges his father, who lived with him, has stolen the affections of his wife, Margaret, 28. The father opened three bank accounts for his son's wife and she is now in jail on a charge of fraudulent conversion in connection with them.

BOTH SIDES DOGGEDLY
FIRM IN BEAGLE ROW

Court Hears Testimony on Master Plumber's Plea for Order to Judge Show.

Most of the officers of the St.
Louis Beagle Club were witnesses,
some of the Beagle officers were lawyers and a good many other Beagle Club members packed the first few rows of the spectators' section in Circuit Judge Miller's court today at the hearing to determine whether George Wollmershauser, master plumber and vice president of the club, or Ed
Bender, beagle judge of Wheaton, Ill., is going to judge the beagle bench show at the Mississippi Kennel Club exhibition here early next month.

Today they were nicely divided.
Albert Davis, Beagle president,
was for Wollmershauser, morally,
ethically and legally, and Secretary Treasurer George Burleigh was against Wollmershauser, "ethically and clubby." So did other Beagle members split their testimony, and likewise did other Beagle spectators divide their adherence.
This judgeship question, which has caused one Beagle enthusiast to pass another without recognizing him, began Feb. 11, when at a regular Beagle club meeting Wollmershauser was elected judge of the coming show. His selection left many disgruntled members, and soon directors' meetings were called. Wollmershauser's selection was nullified. Bender of Wheaton was put in his place. Disruption followed. It looked like all of the Beagle fanatics were going to go to the dogs.

But not Master Plumber and Vice President Wollmershauser.
Late appointed and late rejected beagle judge. He went to law and filed a petition asking an injunction be granted to prevent anyone but himself acting as judge at the Beagle's bench show. He named the Beagle Club as defendant. And all the directors, except President Davis, hurried to their own defense. And that was why the Beagle Club had a show today, but in this case they weren't judging
the bench, but the Bender was judging them.

The first person to take the stand was President Davis. And in a manner denoting the injustice he felt done him he told of what he considered the unfair treatment
that had been doled out to him.

Three of the directors of the club and several others of the members had what they called a social meeting at Ora Leedom's barber shop in Wellston on the night of Feb. 17, he testified.
"Leedom's a director, too. And the next day at 11:30 in the morning—or 11:30, to be exact Secretary Burleigh called me and said
there would be a directors' meeting at Jacob Maurer's barber shop at 4900 Chouteau at noon. That gave 30 minutes to get there and it takes 40.

"I couldn't make it and the directors that met decided to have a special meeting of the club
Feb. 20. I went, but I refused to preside, because I contended the meeting hadn't been legally called.
At that meeting they voted not to have Wollmershauser for judge,
but to get Bender instead."

Speeches and Minutes.
And Burleigh left the counsel table and testified for the defense.
Davis returned to the counsel
said that it wasn't true the club didn't have enough money in the treasury to pay for Bender's coming to St. Louis. He denied the treasury was empty. He said Wollmershauser had been selected beagle judge at the smallest meeting of the club he had ever seen.

So Wollmershauser stamped, up to the witness box and told what he had told the Beagle Club members at the meeting at which he made four speeches.

"Some of them cast doubt upon my honor," he explained. "And I told them if any of them thought they could prove it, to step up and try to prove it, and if they couldn't prove it, then they could come outside."

Wollmershauser didn't tell if anyone accepted his proposition. But he strenuously denied that he had voted.

"Five Points for Topsy."
Then Ed Murphy, who owns 60 beagles and of course is a member of the club, testified as to what he said Wollmershauser had told him.
"Why," said Murphy, "he said I don't like so-and-so's dog. I wouldn't give him a bone. And for so-and-so's dog, he wouldn't get the ribbon with me judging if there wasn't another beagle on the bench."

Murphy explained he didn't think "so-and-so" was fair.

And Joseph Lydon, also a club
director, explained to the Judge that he had the highest respect for Wollmershauser, that Wollmershauser was a customer of his but —well, he didn't believe he was the right man to be judge. He believed if Wollmershauser was to be judge, Wollmershauser, who liked Lydon's "Topsy," would give his
"Topsy" 5 points, and Topsy was getting old, but—

And the attorneys offered Beagle
Club rules and Kennel Club rules
to Judge Miller in pamphlet form,
and cited things to him about Somebody versus Somebody, Missouri, some-number-or-other, and the Judge said he would determine
by Friday for Saturday all about it.
So Wollmershauser may be a beagle plumber, and then again there is a judicial chance he will not.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR ST. PAUL ROAD IN FRIENDLY SUIT

Inability to Refund $48,000,000 Debt of Chicago-to-Coast System Results in Court Action..

BIG REDUCTION IN SECURITIES EXPECTED

Trouble Due to Extension of Line to Pacific Coast, Crop Failures and Deflation.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 18.—Receivers were appointed by the Federal District Court here today for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul R.R. Co.

The petition for a receivership filed today, was a friendly action. Harry E. Byram, president of the company; Mark W. Potter and Edward J. Brundage, the latter recently retired as Attorney-General of Illinois, were appointed receivers by Judge Wilkerson, in bonds of $50,000 each.

The receivership came after months of uncertainty as to the refinancing of the $48,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds due next June. Under the receivership, a drastic reduction in the capital structure, approximately $700,000,000, is expected.

No Opposition to Receivership. The petition was filed in the name of the Binkley Coal Co., but was in the interest of the road itself, with H. H. Field, general counsel for the railway company, present and concurring in the action. There was no opposition.

The road, stretching from the middle west to the Pacific coast, has a bonded debt of $434,242,990; preferred stock of $116,274,980, and $117,411,300 in common stock.

Its Pacific Coast extension, carrying electrically driven trains over the Rocky Mountains, has been one of the marvels of modern day engineering, but the extension with terminals in Seattle, St. Paul and Chicago, has not returned the profits originally anticipated.

Harry E. Byram, president of the company hurried home from New York today after the directors had determined in New York last night upon a receivership as the best present mode of meeting the financial requirements of the company.

For weeks President Byram and the directors have been negotiating with the bankers in New York for refinancing of the $48,000,000 of bonds due in June. The bankers were regarded as one of the strongest railway systems in the country.

In 1901 in a great bull market, its common stock sold as high as $89 3/4 and yesterday the common sold at 7 1/2 in the New York stock market.

CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS FOR MILLER CHOSEN

Will Be Maintained in Central National Bank Building, Kratky Announces.

R. J. Kratky, manager of the campaign of Victor F. Miller, Republican nominee for Mayor, today announced that campaign headquarters would be maintained in the Central National Bank Building.

Headquarters of the women's division, under the direction of Mrs. Louis J. Brooks, will be located on the fifth floor. The men's division, in charge of E. A. Telver, will be located on the tenth floor.

National headquarters will be installed in north, south and west Louie early in the week. Railroad headquarters will be maintained at 2138 Chouteau avenue.

BERGDOFF'S AID PLEADS GUILTY

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Eugene (Ike) Streker, chauffeur companion of Grover Cleveland Bergdoff, army deserter, on his flight from this country to Germany, yesterday pleaded guilty to aiding Bergdoff before Federal Judge Dickinson. Sentence was deferred.

According to Streker's counsel, Emma C. Bergdoff, mother of the deserter, engineered the entire flight and told Streker that if he did not assist Grover to escape, she would "kill one of those fellows" who were guarding him.

The search for a "pot of gold" reportedly hurried him to Maryland before the draft evader's original capture. It was emphasized that Streker had repeatedly, while in many, urged Bergdoff to return to face punishment.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ST. LOUIS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 18, 1925.

Establishes $2,500,000
Fund to Encourage Boys
To Lead Better Lives

"Cocoanut King" to Name Trustees Who Will Distribute Awards to Those Who Keep Pledge of Good Conduct

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Because he does not believe wealthy men should wait until after they are dead before they let their money help others less fortunate than themselves, Leopold Schepp, 32 years old, long referred to by his business associates as the "Coconut King," announces that he has set aside $2,500,000 to encourage young boys to live better and successful lives.

Schepp still comes down every day to his office, from which he directs the coconut importing and manufacturing business with which he has been identified for 60 years.
Before he made public plans for his $2,500,000 foundation, Schepp remembered his own employees.
Monday nine office workers received gifts of $500 to $5000 each,
depending upon their length of service. A telephone switchboard operator, who said she had been employed by Schepp only five months, received a check for $500.
The office boys were not overlooked. Each received a check for $500.

$22,000 to Office Force.

The total given to his office force by Schepp was $22,000. He has 70 to 80 other employees in his factory, who grind the cocoanuts he imports. His secretary announced it is his intention to take care of them in a similar manner soon.

While he was giving out the business, someone told Schepp that Jimmie, a porter, had a sick wife
at home and Jimmie was worried.
Schepp decided it was a case for immediate attention, and Jimmie went home with a check for $750
in his pocket.

Schepp explained yesterday his idea in starting a $2,500,000 fund
for boys.

CHANGES IN STATE INCOME TAX LAW
BLOCKED IN HOUSE

Committee, After Hearing
Protests From St. Louis and Kansas City, Votes Against Amendments.

SUPERVISORY POWER
WITH TAX BOARD

Method of Collection and Assessment, However, Is to Remain Unaltered—Senate Has Passed Bill.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18.—
Delegations of bankers and other business men from St. Louis and Kansas City appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee last night, to oppose some of the provisions of a bill, already passed by the Senate, which would transfer supervision of State income tax collections from the State Auditor to the State Tax Commission, and add drastic methods of enforcement. Gov. Baker favors passage of the measure.

The bill gives broad powers to the commission, which would be checking up on returns by the commission's agents, close many loopholes
in the present law, and make assessment and collection of the tax out of the hands of local assessors and collectors.

Law to Remain Unchanged.

Following an executive session of the committee, it was said the bill would be amended to leave the income law largely in its present form, the assessment and collection remaining in the hands of the local officers, but giving the Tax Commission the supervisory power.
The proposed amendments would weaken the measure considerably.
However, its prospects of passage
in the House are uncertain, even if the amendments are adopted.
The bill was introduced by Rep.
McCauley yesterday, virtually agreed to abandon the bill, along with the administration tax increase bills. It has been estimated the changes originally proposed in the Senate bill would produce at least $1,000,000 in additional revenue in the next two years, with no change in the income tax rate.

Objections to Measure.

Objections raised to the bill are that it would give the Tax Commission a section of the revenue,
that removal of the tax collection
from local officers would render the act unconstitutional. It was charged the bill would permit employment of an unlimited number of field agents, and that the commissioners to file with the commission a copy of their Federal income tax returns when filing the State return was declared to be unconstitutional.

Among the Louisianians appearing against various sections of the bill were Judge Davis Biggs, trust officer of the National Bank of Commerce; Thomas C. Henning, Mercantile Trust Co.; George Chase, St.
Louis Union Trust Co.; and Nat
Wagner of the First National Bank.

REPORT FAVORS M'CANEE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18.—
The Senate Committee on Fish and Game today voted to report unfavorably for confirmation by the Senate the appointment of Keith McCanee of Mount Vernon as State Game and Fish Commissioner.
The report will be made to the Senate tomorrow night and will be acted upon later.

Frank H. Wieland of St. Louis,
Hyde appointee as Game and Fish Commissioner, has been holding the office since Bakel's resignation.
The appointment of McCanee, Wi-
landly ignored a suggestion of Gov.
Baker that he resign in order to make way for McCanee.

The Senate Committee on Labor, Commerce, Mines and Mining will report out for confirmation the reappointment of Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer Wing as chief industrial inspector, Senator Kinney,
chairman of the committee, stated
last night that the committee Wing was opposed recently before the committee by Senator Warner, Republican, of St. Louis, who contended the job "was no place for a woman."

28 U. S. Land Offices Abolished.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—
Twenty-eight local land offices were abolished in an executive order signed yesterday by President Coolidge. The order is effective April 30 and brings to 29 the number of such offices discontinued in the last two months. Decline in public land business was given as the reason for discontinuance, the public area in many of the districts having decreased so greatly that the offices are inadequate to meet operating expenses.

JOHN G. SARGENT CONFIRMED FOR ATTORNEY-GENERALSHIP; BEGINS DUTIES OF OFFICE

New Cabinet Member Is Old Friend of Coolidge Family—Vermont Senator Tells Colleagues He Is Able Lawyer.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—John G. Sargent of Vermont took the oath of office today as Attorney-General of the United States.

He was sworn in at the Justice Department less than an hour after he had arrived from his home in Vermont, in response to a summons sent him from the White House when his name was submitted to the Senate yesterday afternoon.

He was met at the train by Assistant Attorney-General Holland, Ed Starling of the Secret Service,
an old acquaintance of the new Attorney-General.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—
President Coolidge surrendered to the Senate in the matter of Charles McCarthy, Vermont Senator, and Beecher Warren, and John Garland Sargent of Ludlow, Vt., because Sargent is Attorney-General of the United States.

Sargent was confirmed in an open session of the Senate without a dissenting voice or vote yesterday,
after the Judiciary committee had held an executive session at which only one witness, Senator Dale of Vermont, was heard.

He was about the only man in the Senate who had a personal acquaintance with the new man. They have been on opposite sides of every controversy in the Republican party for many years in the Green Mountain State.

Sargent, as chairman of the Vermont Republican State Convention, tried to lead Dale, then a member of the House of Representatives,
out of the party a couple of years ago for voting for the soldier bonus
and against President Harding's policy, on the sole ground that he had opposed the President, which gives a measure of the party regularity of the new Cabinet member.

Nevertheless, Dale told the committee that he would be nominated by able lawyer and eminently fitted for the post.

Big Man in Little Town.

He is a big man in a little town,
but his fame runs all through the State. Ludlow is only 12 miles from Plymouth, the home of President Coolidge's father. He is co-director of the bank with Col.
Coolidge and the families have been intimate for years.

Those who were at Plymouth
when the President was spending his vacation at the old farm remember a rather gangling gentleman, with clothes of a forgotten era, who drove about in a car, the oldest looking car in town, who liked to talk about trout fishing,
and was the soul of hospitality and cordiality. But the car was of an expensive sort, and though the saddle was really well gone there was nothing else the matter with
it. Though he gave an impression of unsophistication and simplicity
to visitors, those who knew him
were in no doubt about his caliber.

This man, a Yankee, tobacco-chewing rural gait, is conceded to be a tough adversary in court, one of the keenest politicians in New England, and with an influence that no candidate in Vermont dares ignore. Years ago, when the New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads were building up, they made a practice of grabbing any younger lawyer who showed signs of promise, and Sargent is one of the products of that system.

Lawyer of Big Fees.

They say he is no millionaire,
but among the other characteristics of great lawyers he has acquired the habit of changing fees.
Though he looks as if a barrel of corn or a yearling cow might enlist his services, his retainers are more often in the thousands than in the hundreds of dollars
and he is in the midst of the big business things of his vicinity.

Moreover, he is a hard-boiled republican.

German Government Has Little Faith in Benes' Plan

Reich Willing to Abide by Treaty Boundaries on West, But Not on East.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Publications Co., New York World.

BERLIN, March 18.—Foreign Minister Stresemann has received assurances from Paris that the German guarantees for a security pact regarding her Western border do not satisfy Premier Herriot. But peace on the eastern borders of Germany seems further away than ever.

The German Government places little faith in the Benes scheme for a Central and Eastern European bloc. The man who has most to do with the fashioning of German policy told the correspondent that the Reich will recognize the Treaty of Versailles as far as the territorial boundaries of France and Belgium are concerned, but that no German Government can accept the Polish corridor.

The Benes scheme is seen therefore as a move to rescue the French from the pleadings of the Poles. If the bloc of Central and Eastern European nations is created, France can enter a four-Power pact with Britain, Belgium and Germany.
Herriot then can tell the Poles that Eastern Europe is out of his hands
—that they must negotiate with the Benes bloc. This would assure peace between France and Germany.

The Benes scheme stresses that boundaries can be changed only by friendly negotiations between nations, not by the International Court.

that King Ali's forces at Jeddah, in the Kingdom of the Hedjaz, were driven back by their trenches by the Wahabi tribesmen on Sunday

OREGON SCHOOL LAW OPPOSED ON RELIGIOUS GROUND

Attorney Tells Supreme Court Statute Interferes
With Rights of Parents in Training Children.

MENACE TO ALL CHURCH COLLEGES

Declares All States but Oregon Are Concerned With Education Itself,
Not Its Method.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—
Speaking with impassioned earnestness in oral argument before
the United States Supreme Court,
W. D. Guthrie of New York, chief counsel for those fighting the Oregon school law, affirmed the far-reaching importance of the issue involved.

"This case," he said in his argument yesterday, "involves infinitely more than all the wealth of the United States, because it involves the liberty of conscience—because it involves the liberty of parents to bring up their children in their own religious faith."

The law, passed in Oregon at the height of the Ku Klux Klan wave, would compel all children from 6
to 16, with exceptions in a few special instances, to attend the public schools.

It was the closing day of the arguments on the constitutionality of the law. The Supreme Court room was crowded. The Justices frequently interrupted questions which caused the argument to change its course.

Guthrie said that if the principle was established that the State has the right to destroy private primary and secondary schools, denominational colleges and universities, except those supported by the State, might come under the ban.

What State Might Do.

A picture was drawn of the technical exercise of the power of the State, which might undertake to say what should be taught and how and which thereby destroy all independent intellectual adventuring and strait-jacket the mental development of all citizens.

"The power of the State to regulate education, but not to destroy its forces, was affirmed throughout the arguments."

Both cases involved were discussed. The first of them brought by the Society of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary and the other was that of the Hill Military Academy. In the first case, it is alleged that religious liberty is involved, as well as property rights,
in the second case only property rights are involved. Both cases had been decided against the State of Oregon in the lower court.

Former United States Senator
George E. Chamberlain, representing the Governor of Oregon, and William Moore, Assistant Attorney-General of Oregon, followed in assault.

In the Hill Military Academy
case John C. Veatch of Portland spoke for the academy, and Dean Albert H. Reed of the American University argued in its behalf.

Education, Not Method.

Guthrie explained there is no question about the right of the State to compel children to attend
some school, but he said the property for them to attend. He took the position that regulation rather than suppression was the proper method. He said the objects sought by all states except Oregon was education itself and not a particular method of education.

He told the Court there was no evidence of any exceptional conditions in Oregon that made the law necessary. He pointed out that the lower court had said there was no evidence showing the private schools were in any way inferior to the public schools of the State.
The arguments presented by the attorneys for the State, he claimed,
to the effect that abolition of private schools would wipe out religious divisions, indicated they wanted to wipe out all such divisions and have only one religion dictated by themselves.

Chamberlain declared there was any religious issue involved. He said the people of Oregon, in passing the law, were actuated by a desire to protect democracy. Religious instruction, he said, was obtained not in the schools, but at the mother's knee.

Safety in Building.

Is there any truth in the story that the Building Commissioner, at the suggestion of contractors, intends to secure an amendment of the city building ordinance which will permit eight-inch walls for two-story structures?

It was the unanimous opinion of architects and builders that 12-inch walls far better withstood the tornado of 1894 than did those only nine inches thick. Now, the size of bricks has been pared down so that two layers make only an eight-inch wall instead of nine-inch. It seems to the writer a mistake to cheapen our buildings merely to help contractors compete with those erecting homes outside the city limits, where eight-inch walls are permitted. The claim is made that many home-builders go just beyond the limits in order to build a trifle cheaper. Be this as it may, an eight-inch wall is a flimsy affair in a region where tornadoes have come in the past and will inevitably come in the future. The drop from 12 inches, required by the present building ordinance, to eight inches, is a perilous one.

By the way, has the building ordinance been amended to permit a 12-inch wall where 13 inches was required? For, as can be understood by the least experienced, the ridiculous and unnecessary piling down in the size of a brick automatically reduces 12 to 12. Now it is proposed to go still farther in the direction of cheapness and insecurity.

Has the Post-Dispatch discarded the matter?

What Walter Camp Did.

In a country where physical perfection and athletic skill are regarded above Phi Beta Kappa keys and scholarly erudition, Walter Camp, who died Saturday, was a most important man. The hope of landing a berth on his All-American team probably has developed more bodies to a point which would have made the ancient Athenian sigh with envy that any other single factor. And Camp's "Daily Dozen," by which he democratized and universalized athletic principles has routed more fatty degeneration than an ocean full of medicine. Camp's name is a household word—deserving so.

Wages of City Workers.

I READ a suggestion, in the form of a letter written by the Water Commissioner, Mr. Wall, to Mr. Hertenstein, chairman of the Efficiency Board. Is he wise, or unwise?

He suggested that the salaries of 100 chauffeurs and 50 laborers (city employees) be cut in the following manner: That the chauffeurs be cut from $5 to $5 cents per hour, and that the laborers be cut from 75 to 55 cents per hour; that by so doing the city would save $62,000 in the next fiscal year.

I think this is unreasonable, for in the first place he recommends that the hard workers be cut 20 cents on the hour, and that the light workers be cut 10 cents on the hour; and in the next place he does not offer to cut his own pay one cent per year. Is this fair?

Mr. Wall does not consider the conditions of the poor working men in the city of St. Louis. Many are not able to pay this high rent, and have a decent supply of food and clothing for their loved ones. How can a man live on less than a $10 a month. He may exist on less, but he cannot lay aside a dime for rainy days.

A LET-LIVE-CITIZEN.

Courts Alone Can Help.

THE Washish is now holding a whip hand over the city and its people. So is the Terminal Railroad which right now is seeking to condemn poor people's property between Twenty-first and Jefferson and Scott and Atlantic streets and if they get this right from Judge Calhoun. God help us who are unable to fight them. We will have to take anything they want to give us and perhaps run all around us and leave us in their network of tracks until the few original owners, who have not lost their property by high taxes, will be dead and gone and then they can get it for nothing. This is why they wanted the 10-year franchise and have bought but little of it so far. Please help us by publishing this letter and oblige.

SIDNEY AVERILL

Columbia, Ill.

COOLIDGE STANDS CORRECTED.

President Coolidge, with the advice and consent of Charles Beecher Warren, acted wisely in withdrawing the nomination of Mr. Warren as Attorney-General and substituting that of John G. Sargent, his former schoolmate and a Vermont lawyer of high repute, against whom there was no objection and whose appointment was immediately confirmed.

Mr. Coolidge acted wisely for three reasons. First, Mr. Warren was disqualified for the Attorney-Generalship by reason of his connection with the Sugar Trust and his recent presidency of a company charged with conspiracy and combination in restraint of trade, and in the event of prosecution Mr. Warren would be both defendant and prosecutor.

Second, on account of this disqualification the Senate had exercised its constitutional power to refuse to confirm the appointment.

Third, to have defied the Senate and ignored Mr. Warren's disqualification by appointing Mr. Warren in a recess would be of doubtful constitutionality and a blunder, in view of the lack of confidence expressed by the Senate and undoubtedly shared by a large element of the people.

We believe Mr. Coolidge is wrong in his theory that the Senate has no discretion in the matter of confirming Cabinet appointments. Responsibility goes with power, and the Constitution having clearly given the Senate power to give or withhold its consent to a Cabinet appointment, the Senate cannot escape responsibility for the fitness of the man nominated for a Cabinet place. Not only is the power to accept or reject a nomination constitutionally vested in the Senate, but wisely so, because the fitness of Cabinet officers not only affects the President's administration but touches the welfare of the people. Unfit Cabinet members, as recent experience has shown, may not only disgrace the administration but humiliate and seriously endanger or injure the interests of the people.

This power vested by the Constitution in the Senate to reject or confirm appointments is not to be exercised lightly or whimsically for political or personal reasons, but ought to be used with judgment and conscience, and with due respect to the wishes and interests of the President in choosing his Cabinet advisers. Each case must be judged upon its own merits. The Senate as well as the President must exercise judgment and conscience. But that the power is there and must be exercised with discretion no one can gainsay. Suppose for argument's sake, Mr. Coolidge had named Harry Daugherty! Would the Senate have had to rubber stamp the nomination in deference to the President's wish?

The provision of the Constitution dividing the responsibility for appointments between the President and the Senate was an intentional safeguard against mistakes, for the protection of the people. If the safeguards of the Constitution are to have any meaning or value, they must be respected and enforced. Constitutional Government means nothing unless clear constitutional restraints are given their full value and the constitutional powers given to any branch of the Government are exercised for the public good.

THE DIVIDENDS OF OPPOSITION.

In his opening campaign address before the "Igor-Mayor" Club, Mr. Igoo stated that rivalry between parties was of greater importance than competition between business houses, that St. Louis had been dominated by the Republicans for 16 years and that for 10 years there had been no minority representation in the city government.

The parallel between party and business monopoly is well drawn. There is one aspect of it, however, that the public probably fails to appreciate. Business monopolies are condemned from the public point of view but immensely enjoyed by those in the monopoly and drawing the dividends. Party monopolies normally escape the displeasure of those within the party for the same reason. Partisan voters may think they are participating in the dividends. This is where St. Louis Republicans not professionally or financially interested in the city administration are indulging in a great illusion. Party labels mean nothing in municipal government. Inefficient or incompetent government, whether Republican or Democratic, yields no dividends to the disinterested voter of either party. The tax rate, municipal service or lack of service, public improvements and their cost, law enforcement or official lawlessness, efficiency or inefficiency, honesty or dishonesty, fall upon Republicans and Democrats alike.

It is only when there is an opposition in government to challenge the acts of the party in power that the voters of all parties are kept informed and have a chance to receive dividends.

The harpers threaten to advance the price of a hair cut to seventy-five cents in St. Louis, advancing the argument that in Alaska the price is a dollar. Just think what the soda fountains could charge for a drink based upon the price of a glass of ice water in Sahara.

AN OLD MAN OF THE SEA.

In his analysis of crime in the United States before the Bar Association, Judge Marcus Kavanaugh did not hesitate to tell wherein his own profession is to blame. "Our courts in construing statutes," says he, "take their inspiration from the old hide-bound traditions of the common law and all too frequently turn these provisions into hazards and traps for the feet of justice." The common law, containing much that is sound and reasonable, contains much that is hopelessly antique and anachronistic.

Lacking a fundamental legal system of our own, we borrowed the English common law when this Government was founded, and the legal profession has treated it with ridiculous veneration ever since. As a result, the common law sits astride our jurisprudence like an Old Man of the Sea. The intricate safeguards of which any criminal may avail himself become a part of the common law at a time when the penalty even for lesser crimes was punishable by death.

Capital punishment for these lesser crimes has long since been abolished, but the American bench and bar still observe the common law safeguards with the fervor of idol-worshippers. As a result, many a rascal, aided by a cunning lawyer, goes free by the grace of technicalities whose original purpose has long since been lost. England, which originated the common law, has thrown into the discard many of its obsolete rules to which we still cling in blind and fond embrace to the last.

MACHINE SMASHER AND MACHINE.

Strange news from the local political battlefield. Victor J. Miller, Republican nominee for Mayor, who smashed the party machine, met the machine bosses at machine headquarters. He went there to meet them. The smasher and the smashed met.

Was there a fight? Did the dauntless enemy of the machine smash 'em again? Did he defy them? Did he tell them he was a machineless candidate and wanted none of their machine? Did he give them notice to take their machine and go—to vacate the city hall? Did he tell them that none but Miller purists would be put on guard and that the whole city government would be reorganized with the rotten machine which had tried to defeat the friend of the people on the outside?

Wonder to relate. Nothing of the kind happened. The expected fight turned into a love feast. Hands were stretched across the bloody chasm. It was bridged over with mutual avowals of love and affection and pledges of support. Mr. Miller then went into the Koeln den. Did he beard the lion there? On the contrary, he fondled him and gave him sugar lumps. He shook hands with the boys in the city hall. They assured him they would "work as hard for him now" as they worked against him in the primary.

The hated machine bosses, described by the press and people backing Miller as the enemies of good government and the betrayers of the people, are joining hands with the machine smasher to fight the other party.

We have been told repeatedly by Miller, his press and his people that machine support is costly; that it cannot be obtained without soul-selling sacrifices and betrayal of the people. We have been told that machine support meant graft, corruption and extravagance; that candidates must pay for machine support with spoils and concessions.

The Republican machine bosses are the same bosses that they were before Miller was nominated. Those who supported other candidates than Miller were defeated, but their minds, motives, purposes and methods are the same.

Unless Miller's nomination has by a miracle suddenly changed the machine bosses from plum pullers and partisans to patriots and purists they will want pay for their support. If the bosses and the boys work they will expect reward. If the Republican machine functions in the election, it will expect to function as usual in the city hall. There must be something in the hands across the chasm.

We shall see. It will be interesting to note how the machine smasher and the machine bosses work out; whether the bosses or the people are double-crossed.

A CHURCH CENSORSHIP?

Are the churches demoralizing our young people? This question was proposed by a Pittsburgh minister in a Lenten talk at Philadelphia. For his own part, he declared, he would rather send his children to some of the New York plays that have recently evoked public protest than to churches where sermons are preached on human depravity. Such sermons, he insisted, create a "spiritual inferiority complex."

How many people stay away from church today for fear of what the preacher may say when he gets into his full stride is, of course, conjectural. Without venturing an opinion it is obvious that this condition can be remedied. With a board of resolute censors to pass upon the manuscripts of all sermons, editing out every dubious expression, excising every primrose flavor, leaving a residue as white as snow and as safe as certified milk—with a guarantee of that kind posted on every bulletin—might we not count on a religious renaissance?

But a church censorship, it may be urged, is an anomaly. Impracticable—unthinkable. But is it? Who may draw a deadline on a practice of censorship once established? Who shall say that censorship may go thus far and no farther? If one institution comes under this ban what institution can be sure of its own immunity from similar regulation? That is something which a good many preacher-politicians might profitably take a day or two off to ponder.

They have taken the wine out of a new edition of the Bible, but if they want the stamp of our 100 per cent pure approval they will have to remove the whole devilish trio—wine, woman and song.

VOTING FOR ALDERMEN.

A Post-Dispatch reader, referring to the method of voting for aldermen in St. Louis, asks if it is not an evil that men who were selected for nomination at the recent primary for the office of aldermen in their own wards, by people who knew them, were beaten by voters from other wards who possibly never saw or heard of the candidates. He asks why should voters in the Twenty-seventh Ward have any voice in the election of an alderman to represent the Thirtieth Ward, or vice versa.

The point is well taken, but it is the law. The city charter provides that "Every elective city officer, including the president and members of the Board of Aldermen, shall be elected by a general ticket." However, the compilers of the charter evidently recognized that this system was imperfect, and in the same section made the provision "that whenever the constitution and laws of the State permit, each alderman shall be elected only by the voters of the ward from which he is elected."

In the recent primary, the voters had to select 14 candidates, out of a list of no less than 72—51 Republicans, 14 Democrats and seven Socialists. With all these names before him, the thinking, public spirited, independent voter was presented with the impractical, not to say impossible, task of picking out, if he could, 14 men of integrity, ability and good character, to represent 14 wards in a city of nearly 800,000 persons. If this voter knew well the candidates running in his own ward, he was fortunate. That he should be able to vote intelligently for 13 other men out of the list of 72, to represent the remaining wards, is too much to expect of any voter. Besides in a city where one party dominates only candidates of the party, as a rule, are elected.

It goes without saying that the present system is wrong. It encourages straight voting, for an entire party ticket, without regard to fitness or any other quality than party affiliation. It prevents opposition in the Board of Aldermen.

Our Puritan President has become a glutton for punishment. Ain't politics wonderful?

After a world-wide search Collector Ballard seems to have found his "magic carpet."

DAWN.

A drab scene!
The waters, like melted metal, glide with low whispering;
Debris in swirling eddies ride.
Brown are the willow clumps.
Etched against a somber morning sky
There are gray factories.
Here, a lone tug goes strutting by.
The squallid shacks, the arch of bridge—
Tired beasts that pull great loads Atop the levee's ridge—
I fry my bacon.
Dried debris crackles in the small stove—
I see the first pink flush of day
Behind the tracing of a distant grove—
Then comes the change!
The hovering smoke cloud turns to misty blue
And all the drear expanse of sky—
Is turned a rosy hue.
And I marvel
That all ugliness is but a curtain that conceals
Beauties that the master's touch
So mercifully reveals! LEE BAWDEN.

If anyone cares about our guess, which we very much doubt, it is that Mr. Warren turned out to be too big a man for Attorney-General and that the administration Senators themselves were not as enthusiastic about confirming him as they might have been. His opponents succeeded in proving that he had monopolistic experience and tendencies for the most part unsuited even by those who were for him, and he therefore easily became even presidential timber. It was, at any rate, making small party use of his talents to have him become nothing more than Attorney-General. The Senate saw that. It has its faults, but you can't beat it for fine distinctions.

Appropos the recent stir about the world coming to an end, it is recalled that in the 1840s great numbers of people, particularly in the East, became followers of one Miller, who had a time set for the end of the world. These people had their resurrection robes made and on the appointed night went out upon hilltops and other take-offs. One man climbed a hay stack up in New York, and during the night he went to sleep. There were some boys in the neighborhood who did not take the business very seriously, and some of these set to work to play a trick. The man on top was aroused from dream of bliss by flame and smoke, and he cried out: "In hell, just as I expected!"

The automobile, as is very well known, is having trouble doing away with the horse, and no doubt the reason is revealed in this item by the Tulsa correspondent of the Monroe County (Mo.) Appeal:
Tom Bryson sold John Day a nice all-purpose horse for $130.
There is no all-purpose automobile.

ARE WOMEN AFRAID?

(Howard, Mo., Courant.)

A mouse can make a woman climb upon a chair very suddenly, but it isn't toward her. It's from nervousness. If you think you can scare a woman, just try honking your horn to make her jump out of the way. Ten to one, she'll stand just where she is and make a face at you.

THE MONEY-MAD WORLD.

Why is it that, with a people groaning under a burden of taxes, there is not a concerted movement in falling on our tax-mad legislators and turning them all out? If any one knows, it has not yet been put into print. But the secret of the universal indifference may lie in the fact that turning a bad lot out always results in putting another bad lot in. Why are three or four million a year necessary to keep that university going? If any one knows that, it has not yet been put into print, either. Consider the army of students that would be necessary to keep that university merely on an expense-paying basis if it were a privately owned institution. Why are new departments created at every session of the Legislature, with their chiefs and clerks added to the payroll? This everybody knows; yet, while he is pondering on it, he merely looks absently into vacancy. All this is bad enough, but seemingly it has not yet stirred the citizens' fighting blood; and bad as it all is with the taxes and the soaring living prices, there is still some consolation in the thought that it might be worse. In a money-crazed country, such as ours is getting to be, one might experience the daily holdup to be deprived of the lone nickel if he has one yet.

Mr. Ford has taken a little railroad and made it pay immense profits. Why not put Mr. Ford in charge of most things supported by public subscription and have them all make money?

England is celebrating Canned Goods Week, but it is unlikely that anything has been as spectacularly canned over there as our Mr. Warren.

It is a wonderful relief to have more in the news about germs and less about Germans.

It begins to look as if Mr. Coolidge would probably serve the longest four years.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reflect without bias the latest comment by leading publicists, newspapers and public men on the questions of the day.

LANDMARK OF PROGRESS.

From the New York Post.
IT is impossible, of course, to say what many persons heard President Coolidge's inaugural address "on the air," as estimates are different. The radio put it at $3,000,000. Other guesses at $500,000, 10,000,000, and one very high authority, attempting to figure with precision, thinks about 1,600,000 were given consecutive attention to the address and says that with even that small shrinkage the performance is equal to the history of mankind. For whatever number, the President's radio address, scattered over the whole United States and West and North, although Southern states were not so well served with broadcasting stations. In other all the people of the United States and of the people of Canada could have heard the presidential voice and address had been supplied with receiving sets that is an achievement worthy to be a landmark of human progress.

"GAS CONCRETE."

From the Washington Post.
A BUILDING material composed of ash and water has been developed by an enterprising architect of New York. Reports by those who have witnessed experiments with it declare it will smash present construction costs. According to a bulletin issued by the American Chemical Association, the new material is called "gas concrete." It is a mixture of cement, sand, and gas, which is cast into molds, which are filled only half-full, some time the "mortar" begins to rise, eventually reaches the level of the top of the mold. The result is said to be a crushing strength of approximately 10 kilograms per square centimeter, plus a high insulative power against heat and sound.

'SAFETY IN AIR TRAVEL.'

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.
A STEP in advance is recorded in the latest aeronautical feat at Kelly Field in Texas. Both pilots jumped, with parachutes from two airplanes that collided in the first time such a happy issue. A grave disaster has occurred. No longer death would have been the inevitable result of the contact. The event will go down in the history of aviation as a landmark in the event of aircraft collisions. In similar mishaps. The answer is that two pilots can effect a descent in a small group of passengers.

Elman Presents in Polish Style a Program Refreshingly Novel.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

STEFAN Elman grows with each of his recitals. In a few years he has transformed himself from a spectacular virtuoso into an artist of cultured refinement; besides, of all the brethren of the violin, he is the most successful of program builders. The literature of his instrument is relatively meager; but he has, at the Odeon, he played a series of 15 numbers of which he might have challenged anyone not a professional violinist to identify more than two by ear.

Of all programs, those for the violin have become most formalized. One may almost reckon upon hearing the Mendelssohn concerto, the Bruch G Minor, or Lalo's Spanish Symphony, and several of Fritz Kreisler's inevitable transcriptions. Not one of these stereotypes was admitted to Mr. Elman's list.

Nardini and Vieuxtemps. It began with a sonata in D Major by Pietro Nardini, an eighteenth century violinist, who was the most famous pupil of Giuseppe Tartini, and whose unfamiliar style displayed the chaste and noble style of early Italian music. Mozart's exquisite "Laendler" followed as an extra; and then, with a contrast of modernity, the fifth and last of Henri Vieuxtemps' violin concertos—a work in one movement, which is seldom heard, which exemplifies the full resources of the instrument, and includes a cadenza of unusual length and brilliance.

For his smaller pieces, the violinist offered as a matter of course Wilhelm's version of Schubert's "Ave Maria," and also Wilhelm's transcription of Chopin's Nocturne in D-flat Major. These were his only concessions to the familiar.

The two groups comprised adaptations of an Adagio by Mozart, a Minuet by Haydn, Paganini's "Dans les bois," and transcriptions of Elman himself of a Contradance by Beethoven, Rubinstein's song, "The Dew is Sparkling," and a "Country Dance" by Weber. Also, he played Wieniawski's Polonaise in D Major, and "Blue Lagoon" by Wieniawski.

Herbert and Bloch. Two American composers were represented. The late Victor Herbert's "A la Valse," a sparkling bit of gaiety, was able without the least modification to follow directly after the Haydn minuet; and Ernest Bloch's "Nigun," or "Chant," from a suite of three pieces for the violin called "Baal Shem," compressed within the range of four strings a lament of most intense intensity.

Mischa Elman Presents in Polish Style a Program Refreshingly Novel.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
ST. LOUIS, March 18.—Mischa Elman, with each of his recitals, grows with each of his recitals. He has transformed himself from a spectacular virtuoso into an artist of cultured refinement; besides, of all the violinists of the present, he is the most successful of program builders. The literature of his instrument is relatively meager; but last night, at the Odeon, he played a number of 15 numbers of which he might have challenged anyone not a professional violinist to identify more than two by ear.

Of all programs, those for the violin have become most formalized. One may almost reckon upon hearing the Mendelssohn concerto, the Bruch G Minor or Lalo's Spanish Symphony, and several of Fritz Kreisler's inevitable transcriptions. Not one of these stereotyped was admitted to Mr. Elman's program.

Martini and Vieuxtemps.
It began with a sonata in D Major by Pietro Martini, an eighteenth century violinist, who was the most famous pupil of Giuseppe Tartini, and whose unfamiliar style displayed the chaste and noble style of early Italian music. Martini's exquisite "Laendler" followed as an extra; and then, with a contrast of modernity, the fifth and last of Henri Vieuxtemps' violoncello—a work in one movement, which is seldom heard, which exemplifies the full resources of the instrument, and includes a cadenza of unusual length and brilliance.

For his smaller pieces, the violinist offered as a matter of course, the version of Schubert's "Die Forelle" and the Nocturne of Chopin's Nocturne. The two groups comprised adaptations of an Adagio by Mozart, a Minuet by Haydn, Paganini's "Dance les bois," and transcriptions of Beethoven's, Schubert's, and the "Dew Is Sparkling," and a "Country Dance" by Weber. Also, played Wieniawski's Polonaise "D Major," and "Blue Lagoon" by Wieniawski.

Herbert and Bloch.
Two American composers, represented. The late Victor Herbert's "A la Valse," a sparkling bit of gaiety, was able without the least modification to follow directly after the Haydn minuet; and Herbert Bloch's "Chanson" from a suite of three pieces for the violin called "Baal Shem," compressed within the range of four strings a lament of most intensity.

Without the least parade of technique or of sentimentality, Mr. Elman contrived to establish a profound impression of skill and feeling. His tone is notably broad and powerful, but he no longer loses it, and reserves its full flood for climaxes. His playing was exquisite, and the excursion of his program was enhanced by innumerable little details and vistas glimpsed through unobscured color, pace and force. An unusually large audience heard him with keen satisfaction.

Thus ended the first year of the Elman Music League, a successful attempt to apply to musical recitals the idea of the "organized audience" employed by the Theater Guild of New York. Five concerts have been given, at a rate of $1 each, and all have been thronged. Two of the recitals were of the highest artistic merit, those of Mr. Elman and of Miss Mauda Muzio. A floral tribute was presented on the stage to Miss Mauda Muzio, organizer and secretary of the league.

WONDER OF CHILDS
RESTAURANT CHAIN DIES

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 18.—Samuel S. Childs, 64 years old, who with his brother William, founded a chain of restaurants extending from coast to coast and into Canada, which made the name "Childs" a national catchphrase, died yesterday in a private sanatorium. The cause of his death was not made public but he had been ill for several years. The Childs company, which he had not been active in its affairs for many years, was founded in 1874 and was managing editor of the Chicago Commercial Journal, 1895 to 1907. One of his sons, George G. Booth, is publisher of the Detroit News, while Ralph H. and Edmund W. control the Booth Syndicate, publishing papers in Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Jackson, Port Huron and Ann Arbor, Mich.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO M. L. WILKINSON

Funeral Attended by Leaders in Philanthropic and Business Affairs.

The body of Melville L. Wilkinson, president of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Co., and leader in civic affairs, following a large public funeral yesterday afternoon, was placed aboard a special car and forwarded, last night, to Delaware, O., for interment. Accompanying the body were his widow, his daughter and her husband—Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Mayfield of Denver, Colo.—and his sister, Mrs. C. E. Cummings of Oak Park, Ill. The place of interment is Mrs. Wilkinson's old home.

The funeral yesterday afternoon at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, of which Wilkinson was a member, was the occasion for an outpouring of friends and associates—persons prominent in the commercial life of the city, in civic endeavors, in philanthropic enterprises—all representative of the many phases of activity with which the merchant was identified.

Body Viewed by Hundreds.
From 1:30 p. m., when the body was removed from the residence at 4605 Westminster place to the church, until 3 p. m., the body lay before the altar of the church. In this period hundreds of employees of the store of which he was the head passed by the casket.

The funeral oration was delivered by the pastor, Dr. Russell Henry Stafford. He paid fitting tribute to the merchant as "a great gentleman, a man of elegance, of dignity, or a certain rare quality which imposed itself on the imagination."

"Because this great gentleman was a great Christian," he said, "he had an unusually keen consciousness of his obligations to society at large, so that his going is a severe loss to the community. No worthy civic enterprise ever failed to engage his sympathy and support. Not only in the many activities of a public-spirited citizen, but also in even the most casual contacts with individuals, Mr. Wilkinson convincingly and consistently manifested his sympathy and support. Not only in the many activities of a public-spirited citizen, but also in even the most casual contacts with individuals, Mr. Wilkinson convincingly and consistently manifested his sympathy and support."

Life Affords Inspiration.
"It seems to me that by the very shock of this loss we are forced to an appreciation of the quality and purpose of this good man's earthly life, which must surely afford inspiration to carry forward the projects for human service and betterment and for the progress of the causes of God to which he was without reserve committed."

The church altar was banked with floral pieces, which also filled the church vestibule.

Funeral services for Edward J. Stock, secretary of the Stock-Peterman House Furnishing Co., 3119-23 North Fourteenth street, who died yesterday following a short illness, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Friday from a funeral parlor at 2117 East Grand boulevard to the Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Twentieth street and Linton avenue. Stock, who was a native St. Louisian, was 47 years old and resided at 4521 Red Bud avenue. He had been in the furniture business here for 21 years. He is survived by his widow.

NATIONAL OFFICER EXPLAINS GIRL SCOUT ORGANIZATION

Object Is to Provide Wise Leadership and Right Things to Occupy Their Minds, She Says.

Giving the girl in her "teens" wise leadership and the right things to occupy her mind and time—capitalizing instinctively as the Boy Scouts organization capitalizes the tendency of boys to move in gangs—constitutes the work of the Girl Scouts, said Miss Elsa G. Becker of New York, national field representative of Girl Scouts, speaking yesterday before members of the Community Council at the American Annex.

"Boy Scouts have capitalized the gang instinct in boys and banded them together into an organization which instills high principles instead of letting them become gangs of criminals," she said. "It is not instinctive for girls to gang together, but they need, in their adolescent years, wise leadership in gaining the experiences which confront them on their first step out of their homes. So such organizations as the Girl Reserves, Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts have come into being."

There are now more than 176,000 Girl Scouts in the United States and scout organizations in 86 countries all over the world, Miss Becker said.

DR. A. B. VOGEL'S FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR PHYSICIAN

The funeral of Dr. Albert B. Vogel, diagnostician of the Board of Health, who died at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday from an organic ailment, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow from an undertaking establishment at 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be at Mount Sinai Cemetery.

Dr. Vogel, who was 50 years old, was graduated in medicine from Washington University. For 10 years he lived in California, but he returned to St. Louis three years ago. About two months ago he became ill, and for the last month he was a patient at the hospital. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Audrey Vogel, five brothers and four sisters.

GANZ AND MEN GIVE TWO CONCERTS AT LOUISVILLE

Program for Children Presented in the Afternoon and One for Adult Audience at Night.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 18.—The second duplex symphony concert engagement in P. S. Durham's series brought the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, under Rudolph Ganz, to the Women's Club for a children's matinee yesterday afternoon and a concert last night. Although the hall was not filled in the afternoon, a large number of both children and adults were present.

Ganz conducted the children's program until the last group and the orchestra gave its best and plenty of it. The concert began with the "William Tell" overture. The Mozart G Minor Symphony, which is honored by as respectful a silence as any adult audience could give, Michel Guskoff, the concertmaster, played the Saint-Saens' "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso," and responded to the encore with the "Meditation" from "Thais."

The children then were introduced to the various instruments of the orchestra by each group of players in turn. This was a feature made particularly enjoyable by Ganz, who devoted much time to it. The final group under Frederick Fischer closed a program that held the children attentive throughout.

The night concert provided variety. Helen Traubel, a soprano, captivated the audience with a fine climax in "Die Thure Halle," and added a sentimental song by Ganz, Arthur Shattuck, who came near the end of the program, with the Saint-Saens' Concerto, was recalled eight or 10 times. The fifth symphony of Beethoven was played by the orchestra.

Program of Vaudeville and Dancing Given at Army.

A reunion of the 138th Regiment, Missouri National Guard, held last night at the regiment's Army. Grand boulevard and Market street, was largely attended by former members of the organization, their families and friends.

Mayor Kiel commended the members for preserving the memories of their fellows who died in the war, and talked of the Memorial Plaza as a lasting tribute to St. Louis' soldier dead.

The program consisted of a series of vaudeville specialties, followed by dancing until midnight.

WANTED: A MAN

—who can be six men at one time

If you know a man who is —a real estate operator
—an accountant
—who knows one of the most technical branches of the law
—who is familiar with the tax regulations of the Federal Government and all the States
—who has at his finger-tips the facilities of a bank
—and who is experienced in many widely different fields of business appoint him Executor of your will!

To be a competent Executor a man should have these qualifications at least. Experience proves that one man cannot be six different men at one time. That is why so many prudent men and women are naming the St. Louis Union Trust Company as Executor of their wills and giving the estates they leave the benefit of this large organization's competent service.

This service costs no more than the service of one person. It is likely to cost less, because the St. Louis Union Trust Company knows the most direct and economical methods of handling every part of the work. Expenses are kept down to a minimum.

Our Trust Officers will gladly give you full information about the services of this sturdy old company without cost or obligation.

THE FOXES AND A COP 'TELL IT TO THE JUDGE'

Family Says Patrolman Hit Himself, He Blames Them—
Everybody Goes Home.

Patrolman Kiernan, swinging his nightstick, was walking his beat on the night of Feb. 28, thinking about nothing in particular, and the thought of trouble especially far from his mind.

Suddenly somebody plucked at his sleeve and cried, "Oh, officer, I am Mrs. Ethel Mack. I live at 4611 Enright avenue, and some of my roomers won't move till I give them back their revolver, and I am afraid to give it back, and I certainly think I need police protection, and as I am a citizen I think I deserve it."

Charges Filed.

So Officer Kiernan got a firmer
grip on his nightstick and assured
Mrs. Mack he'd see she got police protection, or he wasn't an officer, which he was. So the patrolman and Mrs. Mack proceeded to Mrs.
Mack's home, and from now on the stories diverge. The only definite facts are that Officer Kiernan got a scratch over his eye, something of a battle royal ensued, and the officer filed charges of resisting arrest against Eugene Fox and his wife.

According to the policeman he went to the door of the apartment occupied by the Foxes and rapped
on it. "Let's see your warrant," Fox yelled at me," said the officer,
testifying in police court yesterday.
"I told him I didn't have a warrant and I didn't need any. Then he pushed me. His wife pushed me. He called uncomplimentary things to me. Their 3-year-old little girl laughed at me. Mrs. Fox scratched me over the eye. I finally had to get the wagon. That's what they did to me."

Mrs. Mack supported Policeman Kiernan's statements. She said she witnessed the trouble. All except when the patrolman went into the kitchen "to look in the icebox for the phonograph."

Patrolman Tells Troubles.

Nobody knew just what she was alluding to, but as it didn't seem to be important, the court didn't inquire. Mrs. Mack also had a neighbor who said unkind things about the Foxes.

And then Fox took the stand.
"That policeman came right in our place," he said. "He pushed me.
He pushed my wife. Nobody touched him. Nobody scratched his face. He did it himself. He hit himself by mistake with his own club. Put the baby on the stand and ask her. She's still laughing about it. And I never said I'd get his job." And Mrs.
Fox said much the same thing, and a neighbor of the Foxes said many nice things about the Foxes.

And Judge Matthews said, "It appears to have been the unfortunate fate of the officer to have been there at that time. And now everybody can go home."

STANDARDIZATION WOULD SAVE "TEN BILLION TO INDUSTRY"

Oil Men's Convention.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 13.
—A saving of $10,000,000,000 in American industry annually may be effected through a broad application of simplification and stand-ardization, H. M. Hudson, chief of the Division of Simplified Practice of the United States Department of Commerce, said at the annual convention of the American Oil
Men's Association here today. Mr.
Hudson said the amount represented almost as much as the total investment in the petroleum industry which, he stated, has made considerable progress in standardizing pipe, drilling, equipment and the size of barrels in which oil is sold.

Mr. Hudson stated that the Housler committee of 15 prominent American engineers on waste in industry had disclosed that waste in six typical industries was close to 50 per cent.

ONE KILLED, TWO WOUNDED AS RESULT OF CATHOLICS' DISPUTE

Disorders in Queretaro, Mexico.
Reported—Windows of Methodist Church Destroyed.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, March 13.—Disorders in Queretaro growing out of the schism among the Catholics and the formation of the so-called Mexican Apostolic Catholic Church
are reported in dispatches received here.

One person was killed and two were wounded in a clash Monday between a group of workers and a number of Catholics who mistook
the workers for followers of the new sect and believed they were attempting to seize the Santa Cruz Church.

Yesterday the Catholics' organized a manifestation, marching through the streets and destroying the windows of the Methodist Church because, the dispatches say,
they believed the Methodist pastor
to be connected with the separatists.

TWO SUSPECTS IN MOUND CITY TRUST ROBBERY SOUGHT

Search Being Pressed Following Indictment of Seven Men, Six of Whom Have Been Arrested.

Search for two suspects in the $25,000 robbery of the Mound City Trust Co., on March 3, is being pressed, following indictment in the case yesterday of seven men, six of whom have been arrested, two of them having confessed and implicated others in the plot.

Those indicted: "Gasoline Jack" Rubenstein, president of a defunct filling station company and professional bondsman, whose financial troubles have attracted attention lately; alleged "fixer" of the robbery plot, John C. Hagen, alleged leader of the bank robbery, who became notorious in Kansas City as head of the defunct Midwest Detective Agency, and who is under bond under an appealed Federal prison sentence of a year and a day under the Dyer act, and also under bond on a Clay County robbery charge; G. C. Lee, Kansas City politician and professional bondsman; an alleged go-between in the plot.

Former Policeman Named.
Joseph Carroll, former St. Louis policeman, proprietor of a saloon at 1124 Pine street, an alleged accomplice. The automobile license used on the robbers' car had been discarded by a citizen in the alley behind Carroll's saloon, and this circumstance led to the arrests.

Herbert Julian of Kansas City, a confessed robber of the bank, who has been identified by bank employees.

Lawrence Julian of Kansas City, brother of Herbert, confessed driver of the robbers' car.

A seventh man, one of those being sought by the police. As told yesterday, the Julians, brothers, in their confession, asserted Lee had arranged with them to come here, introducing them to "Gasoline Jack," and they said that Hagen and three others, including the man under indictment and being sought, joined them at Carroll's saloon and accompanied them in the robbery. Rubenstein, they said, pointed out the bank to them and took them to the saloon.

Chief of Detectives Hoagland announced today an additional point of the confessions. The Julians, he related, said that after the robbery, when the stolen automobile they used was abandoned in the 2300 block of Semple avenue, Carroll and Lee met them there in Carroll's Ford coupe and relieved them of the stolen money. The robbers then scattered and went downtown on street cars.

Confession Corroborated.
A witness whose story tends to corroborate the confessions was found yesterday. This person related that the plot was completed in a half dozen conferences in Lee's room at the Majestic Hotel here, in which Lee, Carroll, Rubenstein and others took part. It was said that four trips of inspection of the Mound City Trust Co., at Union boulevard and St. Louis avenue, were made before the robbery.

Hagen and Lee are under arrest at Springfield, Ill., having been traced there.

Hagen, a powerful six-footer, weighing 200 pounds, had anything but the appearance of a bank robber at the St. Nicholas Hotel here, where he was stopping. He was a generous tipper. But when detectives entered the men's room Hagen tried to get his revolver from a dresser drawer. In the face of the officers' weapons, Hagen and Lee refused to be brought here without extradition papers, which are being sought.

The Julian brothers have been released on $10,000 bonds. "Gasoline Jack" Rubenstein succeeded in obtaining a common-law bond last night, but, putting in an appearance at his old haunts in the Municipal Courts Building this morning, he was rearrested under a bench warrant and placed in a cell until he obtained a $25,000 bond. Carroll gave the bond today.

The Kansas City druggist, who was arrested under suspicion and brought here yesterday, has been released unconditionally. A member of the Egan gang is under arrest today, suspected of having been one of the robbers. The men being sought are a St. Louisan and a former Kansas City policeman.

Samuel Katofsky, owner of a tailor shop at 2839 Union boulevard, near the bank, has been arrested in the investigation, and released on bond, because Patrolman Duff, who had been told to visit the bank frequently to protect it, was in the tailor shop at the time of the robbery. The policeman reported today that he had been in the bank prior to the robbery, saw Katofsky there, and told him a patch in his trousers needed repairing. The tailor told him to come along and get it fixed, he said, and he did so. He was putting his coat on again in the shop when the bank's siren sounded the robbery alarm, he reported. Katofsky made a similar statement. Other policemen had reported that the bank siren was not sounded, but they were not present at the time.

ONE FOR OLD FOLKS!

ake Haley's Magnesia-
oil—milk of magnesia
and mineral oil combined

When nature relaxes her vigilance and permits the bowels to become clogged with accumulating waste matter, a tablespoonful of Haley's Magnesia Oil, once or twice a day,
will restore the bowels to their normal activity.

A perfect combination of milk of magnesia and pure mineral oil, Haley's Magnesia-Oil provides at all times an efficient antacid for indigestion, a most natural lubricant for the bowels.
The mineral-oil carries the milk of magnesia straight to the lower bowels where it is most required. It is mild, causes no griping or nausea, and has only the palatable taste of magnesia which is lost entirely
when it is mixed with milk.

There is no need of the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal
evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and
to cause expulsion of flatus (GAS). This evacuation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the
bowels of matter which has been in the system a long time and which other laxatives means have been unable to discuss. It is often astonishing the great amount of matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal
canal—even right after a natural movement. It sometimes brings out unexpected quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, this relieving pressure in the abdomen. Adler-ika is especially valuable when PROMPT
action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of metabolic poisons through
the bowels.

In eight disorders such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel inaction), a single spoonful of Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In case of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not bring relief in 24
to 36 hours the advice of a reputable physician should be secured.

Report from Physicians
"I congratulate you on the good effect
from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. J. Anderson.
"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. B. Borer.

isfactory results." (Signed) Dr. A. C. C. C.
(Name given on request.)
"I have used Adlerika for years without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. H. Bernhart.
"After taking Adlerika I feel better than for many years. Haven't language to express the improvement eliminated from my system." Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 18.—
Discovery was made late yesterday
of plans for an attempt to escape
from the Danville jail which was
to have been staged last night by
Arthur M. Richardson of East St.
Louis, self-confessed bank robber,
who is to be tried today in Federal Court here on the charges of robbing
United States mail sacks at Salem last November.

Associated with Richardson in
the plans for a jail delivery were Joe Stem, East St. Louis, sentenced
a week ago to five years in Leaven-
worth Penitentiary, and George
Hart and D. A. Kemp, facing trial
tomorrow in Federal Court on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile from Florida to Williams
County.

Keys were found in Richardson's
cell fashioned from an aluminum
pan used in the jail. The would-
be lock but not unlock the door, but
could easily be made to do the work. A heavy iron bar was also found in Richardson's cell, torn
from his bunk, which was to be used to attack the night jailer in
their break for freedom.

All four men have confessed to planning the getaway. They were locked in a separate part of the
jail from the other members of
the Salem robbery suspects, Gene Hailoran, James Burns and George
Diefenbach, and also in a separate
ward from Jimmy Overstreet, alias
Ripley, who was brought here
Monday from the McAlester (Ok.)
Penitentiary as a Government witness against the men.

Ed Hall, a fifth man indicted by
the Federal grand jury for the Salem robbery, was brought here late
this afternoon from the Chester
Penitentiary. He is, on crutches,
the result, it is said, of having been
shot last October during an attempt of the robbers to steal a car
from a Flora garage. After the Salem robbery he was taken into custody and returned to Chester
when it was found he was an escaped convict.

PLAN TO BREAK JAIL
AT DANVILLE FOILED

Man, Placed on Trial Today
for Salem Bank Robbery and 3 Others Involved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 18.—
Discovery was made late yesterday
of plans for an attempt to escape
from the Danville jail which was
to have been staged last night by
Arthur M. Richardson of East St.
Louis, self-confessed bank robber,
who is to be tried today in Federal Court here on the charges of robbing
United States mail sacks at Salem last November.

Associated with Richardson in
the plans for a jail delivery were
Joe Stem, East St. Louis, sentenced
a week ago to five years in Leaven-
worth Penitentiary, and George
Hart and D. A. Kemp, facing trial
tomorrow in Federal Court on a
charge of transporting a stolen automobile from Florida to Williams
County.

Keys were found in Richardson's
cell fashioned from an aluminum
pan used in the jail. The would-
be lock but not unlock the door, but
could easily be made to do the
work. A heavy iron bar was also found in Richardson's cell, torn
from his bunk, which was to be used to attack the night jailer in
their break for freedom.

All four men have confessed to
planning the getaway. They were locked in a separate part of the
jail from the other members of
Hailoran, James Burns and George
Diefenbach, and also in a separate
ward from Jimmy Overstreet, alias
Ripley, who was brought here
Monday from the McAlester (Ok.)
Penitentiary as a Government witness against the men.

Ed Hall, a fifth man indicted by
the Federal grand jury for the Salem robbery, was brought here late
this afternoon from the Chester
Penitentiary. He is, on crutches,
the result, it is said, of having been
shot last October during an attempt of the robbers to steal a car
from a Flora garage. After the Salem robbery he was taken into
custody and returned to Chester
when it was found he was an escaped convict.

Report from Physicians

Intestinal Evacuant
There is no need of the public a
liquid preparation which is not only a
wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal
evacuant, but which also seems to stimu-
late the glands of the intestinal tract and
to cause expulsion of flatus (GAS). This evacuation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the
bowels of matter which has been in the
system a long time and which other laxa-
tives means have been unable to discuss. It is often astonishing the great amount of
matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal
canal—even right after a natural movement. It sometimes brings out unexpected
quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, this relieving pressure in the abdomen. Adler-
ika is especially valuable when PROMPT
action is necessary or to encourage the
elimination of metabolic poisons through
the bowels.

Famous Old Recipe
for Cough SyrupEasily and Cheaply Made at Home.
But It Beats Them All for Quick Results.Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle,
and add plain granulated sugar syrup
to make a full pint. If you prefer,
use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.It's truly astonishing how quickly
it acts, penetrating through every passage of the throat and lungs—
loosens and raises the phlegm,
soothes and heals the membranes,
and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dread cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world
over for its healing effect on membranes.Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The

IN SCHOOL ELECTIONSchool Patrons Alliance Asks
That No Organizations Oppose Its Candidates.A resolution asking that no organization oppose the five candidates for the Board of Education who have been endorsed by the Public School Patrons' Alliance was adopted by the board of the alliance last night, meeting at School Board headquarters.Myrt A. Rollins, general president of the alliance, said he understood the object to be avoidance of any conflict over candidates, but that the chief underlying idea was to keep politics out of the campaign.Already a number of women's organizations have endorsed the candidates of Mrs. Elias Michael, an incumbent on the board, but Mrs. Michael is not one of those endorsed by the alliance. The Citizens' School Board Committee comprising about 3000 representatives of various civic interests, is preparing to endorse candidates.Candidates endorsed by the alliance are Emil J. Barth, John S.
Marsalek, Henry P. Schroeder,
Robert H. Ballman and Myrt A.
Rollins.Text of Resolution.
"This board of alliance being opposed to politics entering into the management of the business of the Board of Education, we respectfully request that no political party or other organization oppose the candidates endorsed by this alliance, and not enter any candidates in opposition to these, but allow the voters to support the choice of the public school patrons."The alliance has about 30,000 members, parents of children attending 79 of the schools. Its board decided last night to hold district
mass meetings in the high schools
to support of the alliance candidates, all of whom are active with in that organization. Cards and other "literature" will be circulated in support of these five men. Members of the board expressed the hope that other organizations would favor these five candidates.Mrs. Michael Endorsed by Women.
The latest organization to approve the candidacy of Mrs.
Michael was the League of Women Voters, meeting at the City Club yesterday. A resolution adopted stressed her devotion to the school children, her faithful attendance
at board meetings, her frequent visits to schools, her study of education methods and her efforts in behalf of handicapped children.
Other organizations favoring Mrs. Michael include the Board of Religious Organizations, the Catholic Women's League, the Council of Jewish Women, the District Federation of Women's Clubs, W. C.
T. U. Wednesday Club, College Club and Tuesday Literary Club. A public mass meeting to plan Mrs.
Michael's campaign will be held in Vandervoort's auditorium at 2 p.
m. tomorrow. Among speakers will be W. Palmer Clarkson and Mrs.
George Gellhorn.

Conquers Bad Breath
and Is Popular Again

"The day I started taking Carter's Little Liver Pills," says Mr. John A.
Perry of New York City, "my habitual bad breath and bad stomach stopped. I strongly recommend them to all those afflicted with these nasty troubles. I assure you that my own case was a bad one, causing me un-

OBSERVANCE HERE OF
ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Ecclesiastical Procession and Sermon at St. Patrick's Church Chief Exercise.

St. Patrick's Church, at Sixth and Biddle streets, was the center of celebration here yesterday of St.
Patrick's day. The annual parade in honor of this occasion, which used to make something of a civic celebration out of a saint's day,
now is but a resplendent memory.

Silk hats, marshals on prancing horses and billows of green, with the shamrock everywhere, used to be impressive notes of the parades.
It wasn't only the Irish who took part in these festivities, but not infrequently those of Teutonic name and others mixed in joyously.

Well, yesterday there was plenty of green to be seen in coat labels and adorning necks that wear on other days cravats of all hues. The shamrock was even noticeable here and there in negro districts.

When orchestras in some place
last night played the old Irish tunes the applause showed that Irish sentiment had become something of an international legacy.
Now and then somebody would hum the ancient jigging ditty: "Potatoes and fishes are very good dishes St. Patrick's day in the mar-shaling."

Ceremonies at St. Patrick's.

At St. Patrick's Church there was a big congregation at 10 a. m.
Mass. Mr. Timothy Dempsey—
"Father Tim" still to his flock—stood on the front steps of the church, following his annual custom, and welcomed those arriving.
Next door over the rectory entrance, fluttered the old green flag of Ireland, with the golden harp
and the "Erin Go Bragh." Nearly every one in the congregation displayed a wisp of green.

Archbishop Glennon and Monsignor Dempsey, Tammany and Brennan, led an ecclesiastical procession of about 150 persons into the church. The Rev. J. J. Kane, pastor of Sacred Heart Church,
preached a panegyric with the text
"And I took root with an honorable people." He said:

"St. Patrick, out of a sense of gratitude to the Irish people, was tempted to go back to that country, where he had been a slave, and because of that gratitude he brought to them the light of the gospel, and made them the wonderful people that they were. He had found that the Irish were an honorable people, and he decided to take root with them."

"Although the Irish people were devoted to the see of Rome, that did not interfere with their patriotism. They were extremely patriotic, and at the same time were devoted to the Pope. That is an answer to some of the people of the present day, who say that we cannot be patriotic and at the same time be devoted to Rome."

J. S. Leahy, speaker at banquet, American Friends of Ireland held their annual banquet at the Chamber of Commerce last night.
John S. Leahy, an attorney, speaking on "America declared that the people owe the nation more than mere love, that they owe it their energies for the perpetuation of its fundamental laws. He went on:

"Our country's fundamentals are threatened by formidable arrays of men and women who do not understand these fundamentals. While the time is yet ripe, let us get together and put down klans and other dangers that are undermining the life blood of the nation.
It is not because of the technicalities of our laws that they are not rigidly enforced. It is the fault of our judges, prosecution departments and our juries. The judges and prosecutors contribute to law enforcement because of a desire to make themselves popular and to succeed by getting close to the worst elements in our society."

ants Were Not Needed.

An unpaid balance of a liquor law violation fine yesterday lost Burt Hill, negro, of 1309 Colas avenue, East St. Louis, his job as a juror in City Judge Cook's court.
When Hill walked into court Monday and announced himself ready for service, a Deputy Sheriff who was waiting for him took him to Belleville where he was held in default of a $97 balance of a $200 liquor fine assessed against him a year ago. He paid the balance yesterday and hurried back to court, but Judge Cook told him he would no longer be needed.

Attention, Taxpayers!

The assessment books, containing the assessments of Real and Personal Property for the taxes of the year 1925, are now open for inspection in the office of the Assessor, Room 114-15-17 City Hall, Twelfth and Market Streets.

A readjustment of valuations of Real Estate has been made throughout the City, and taxpayers are requested to call on and after this date and examine their assessments.

The Board of Equalization is now in session and will remain in session four (4) weeks from Monday, March 16, 1925, and no longer.

Complaints against assessments before this Board must be made in writing and sworn to. Blank forms can be had at this office.

No complaints can be considered after the Board has adjourned.

GONZALES ARRIVES IN CARDINAL TRAINING CAMP, READY FOR WORK

Cuban Catcher Played Winter Ball at Havana

"Needs Only One Throw to Second Base to Be Ready for First Game."

HORNSBY IS RESTING

Swat King's Feet Swollen From Too Much Early Work—Mueller Is Hurt.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 18.—Miguel Gonzales, the pride of Havana, arrived in the Cardinal camp here last night with a row of white teeth shining through a stiff beard and things generally took on a brighter aspect. He had been riding continuously since 1 o'clock on the afternoon of March 11, six days ago. Mike came via steamer from Havana to New Orleans and by rail the remainder of the way.

Gonzales will don a uniform today, but admits that he will need little work to put him in condition. The tall, slim Castilian needs only a shave and one throw to second base to put him in readiness for the season.

Tragedy of 1924 Season.

The coming of Gonzales recalls the serious situation of the Cardinals a year ago, when the club boasted of no catcher worthy of the name. It was because Manager Rickie was forced to open the season without a first-class backstop in 1924 that the club got off to a poor start, from which it was really never able to recover.

While Gonzales has done no catching since Nov. 10, last, he has worn a uniform as late as Feb. 19. On that day the season closed in the Cuban Winter League. Gonzales' Havana club finished in second place in the race, three games behind Adolfo Luque's club. Major league rules prohibit Gonzales and Luque from playing with their teams after Nov. 10, after which date they became bench managers.

On his return to Cuba last winter, Gonzales was signally honored by his country people. He received a plaque from Havana in recognition of his great work with the Cardinals last season. He caught in 121 games, more than any other major league catcher. From the citizens of his home town of Regla he received a gold medal and from Havana and Regla friends he received a handsome platinum watch. Mike confided that it cost $450.

Hornsby Not in Uniform.

Tommy Hornsby did not don a uniform again yesterday, making the second day that the king has been idle. His feet are badly swollen and need rest. He may get into action for a few innings today, when the Sacramento club calls for a game here.

Haines Ready for Big Year.

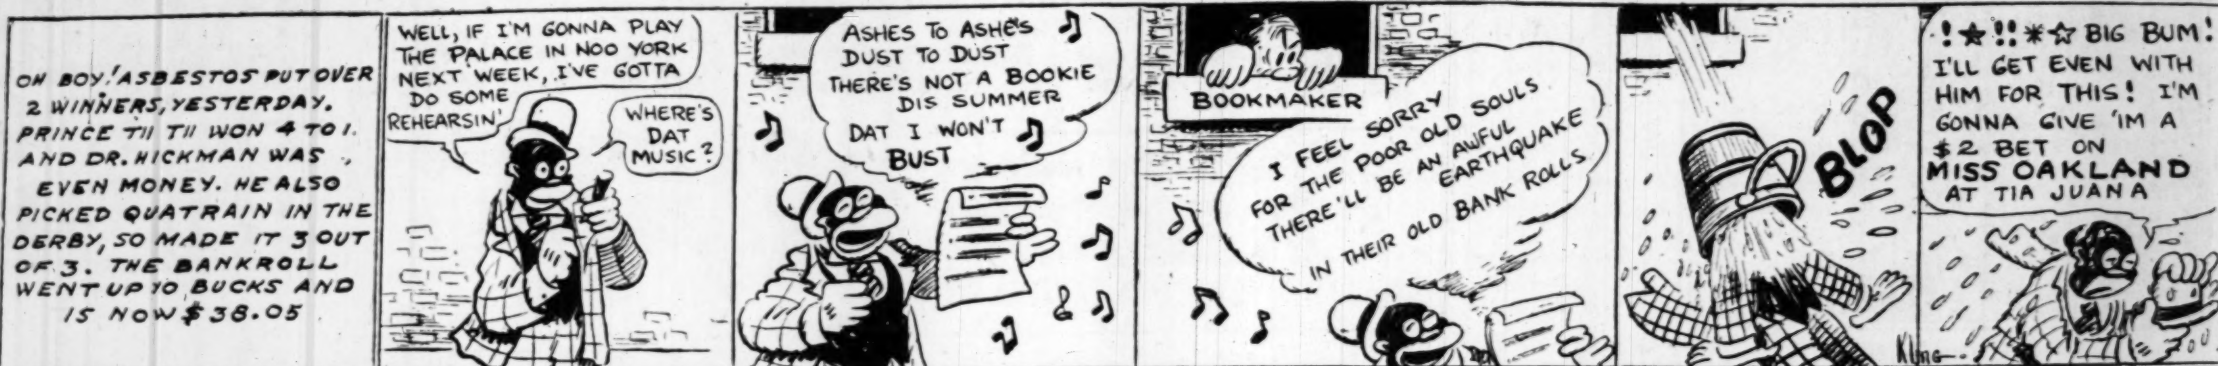

Unless some unforeseen accident or illness befalls him, Jesse Haines will undoubtedly be Manager Branch Rickey's pitching selection for the Cardinals when they open the National League season in Cincinnati on April 14. This prediction is made following Haines' declaration that he is in better condition to pitch right now than he has ever been at this season of the year since first joining the Knott-Hole gang in 1920.

With almost a month to go before the curtain goes up in the National League race, Haines is mighty enthusiastic about his condition right now. This may mean much to the Cardinals this season. Haines with a poor club behind him last season lost more games than any other pitcher in the league. This was a keen disappointment inasmuch as Haines is rated as one of the best twirlers in the National League and because he is regarded as one of the best flight of twirlers among the Cardinals.

When the so-called star of the pitching staff develops into the greatest loser of all the curvers in the league it is easy to understand why the club fails to become a pennant contender.

JOE and ASBESTOS—Asbestos Rehearses His New Song, "The Bookmaker's Blues"

—By Ken Kling

WRAY'S COLUMN

Short Odds.

TWO months before the Kentucky Derby, Quatrain is quoted in the future books at only 4 to 1, against. This means that if anything happens to keep Quatrain from going to the post the better loses his investment. In addition, after he gets to the post, Quatrain must beat a field that includes some truly great horses. There are at least 19 eligibles, whose measure Quatrain will have difficulty in taking. If they have come through the winter all right, it is therefore entirely probable that the odds in the muds on the day of the race will be quite as good as those now being offered on the favorite, with an outside chance that the horse may not be sent to the post at all.

Gun Shy.

THE short price is the result of the spanking the bookies were given last year when Black Gold went over at from 20 to 20 to 1. Chicago books in many cases failed to pay off, while the big stores in St. Louis were badly bent. Once again, twice shy. This year the bookies are playing safe. They will try to take in enough short-price favorite money to protect them in case a long shot goes over. However, there is no wave of popular support for any 20 to 1 shot now in the field, and the favorite has not been at any time quoted at more than 8 to 1.

Looks like a safe and sane winter book, and a wide-open race Quatrain notwithstanding.

Not Promising.

THE Gibbons-Willis match proposed as a New York Milk Fund feature, will be a sorry spectacle to view, if both men run true to their fighting form. Here are two past masters of safety first; of the tricks of hitting while holding; of prevention, rather than accomplishment. When Willis or Gibbons elects to fight one of those tricky, intricate, clinching combats, the result cannot be rivalled for dullness and lack of action. The only excitement in the ring doing real work with these two scrappers on the job is the referee, who frequently needs a crowbar to pry the combatants apart.

Ho, Hum!

IMAGINE TWO such men in the ring and picture the referee trying to get a fight out of them. We predict that if this match is arranged spectators will find it had brought out gas masks to the ringside. Gibbons should have been disqualified at Shelby; Willis deserved the same fate against that belligerent, clumsy Pampas Bull, Fipps.

Perhaps the Milk Fund show referee will do a good job by throwing both men out.

MISS COLLETT AND MRS. STERRETT WIN OVER MEN GOLFERS

By the Associated Press. ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 18.—Joe Kirkwood, professional, and N. B. Perkins, Louisville, Ky., amateur, tried to give Miss Glenna Collett, former national women's champion, and Mrs. H. D. Sterrett of Hutchinson, Kan., Kansas champion, four strokes in 14 holes in an exhibition golf match here yesterday, but found themselves 4 down with 3 holes left to play. The men would have won only 1 up had the match been played without handicap.

Both Miss Collett and Mrs. Sterrett played sensational golf. Miss Collett with an 8 on the eighteenth hole finished with 82, tying the former course record for women. Mrs. Sterrett, who held the record, ended it by one stroke, with an 81.

Sisler Selects Men Who Will Tour the 'Bush'

Ten Pitchers Chosen for Games With Giants, Braves and Buffalos.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 18.—Manager Sisler yesterday sent his men through an eight-inning ball game, the Sisler-Williams-Evans combination beating the Toib-Robertson-Bush outfit, 7 to 4. The team of the Browns announced a list of players who will make the three-day trip next week to meet the Giants, Buffalos and Boston Braves. This particular list of names possibly may not mean anything at all and then again it may be considered by some as very significant. Just 23 men are named, two less than will be carried throughout the season. Also, an important point is that George has selected 10 pitchers, among whom are seven veterans and three recruits.

Following is the list of men selected to tour the "bush":

Tobin, Bennett, Williams, outfielders.

Evans, Sisler, Rice, Lamotte, Gerber, Robertson, Burke, infielders.

Severid, Rego, Dixon, catchers.

Bush, Wingard, Vandiger, Gaston, Plank, Grant, Danforth, Giard, Palk, Blacholder, pitchers.

Milton Gaston appears among the chosen pitchers and he is considered in every way a regular on the Browns' pitching staff. Manager Bill Friel and Scout Ray Baker commented about the excellent pitching of Gaston. Joe Bush also thinks highly of Gaston and "Bull" Joe says that he knows "Rom" for the Browns.

Blacholder to Stick.

George Blacholder and Joe Giard have both had minor league experience and it is figured almost a certainty that both will be able to lend a helping hand now and then when called upon to help the Browns.

Chester Palk is just out of Texas University, but he has made a most favorable impression with almost everyone in camp.

Other new men named on Sisler's list are Bob Lamotte, the shortstop obtained in the draft from Memphis; Pat Burke, the St. Louis boy; and the catcher obtained in trade with the St. Paul ball club. Lamotte has done good work here and there is every reason to believe that he will be carried for extra duty on the infield this season.

Dixon Works at First Base.

Leo Dixon, amateur, yesterday in uniform for the first time and after warming up some of the pitchers he was called upon to play first base. Bob Lamotte, the shortstop, worked yesterday because of illness, Austin playing short.

Players who remain at camp while their teammates are playing three games in Jacksonville, are: Walter Beck, Bradford Springer, Earl Smith, Edward Stauffer, Nolan Buckner, pitchers, and Fred Knott, catcher.

Bradford Springer, a tall left-handed semipro from Detroit, and Edward Stauffer is a right-hander who has plenty of stuff and he is a very smart young fellow, knowing at all times just what to do.

BOSTON.—Clarence Jackson of Buffalo won two three-inning matches from Earl Lookbaugh here yesterday. The scores: 50 to 14 in 54 innings and 50 to 22 in 67 innings. Jackson had a high run of 2.

St. Louisian Is Victor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—James E. Sheldon of St. Louis came through successfully yesterday in the first round of match play in the annual Dixie amateur golf championship. He advanced at the expense of W. I. Huffstetter of Pittsburgh, 3 up and 2 to play.

How to Play B-I-L-L-I-A-R-D-S

By CHAS. C. PETERSON. (This is the third of a series of articles by Charles C. Peterson, famous fancy shot billiard player, designed to assist amateurs to improve their game.)

GRIP ON THE CUE.

Although we find an occasional exception to the rule, the best professional billiard players use the grip shown in the accompanying picture.

Among the exceptions I may name Eduoard Horemans, the Belgian, who grips with the full hand, closing all four fingers and thumbs around the butt of the cue. On the other hand, Schaefer, Hoppel, Cochran, Hagelacher and many others use the grip I have illustrated here.

Only the thumb and the first finger are in actual contact with the cue. The contact is light, only tight enough to be firm. A common mistake made by beginners and many advanced amateurs is that their grasp on the cue is a rigid, vice-like death grip which destroys gentle contact of the cue tip on the ball and makes it infinitely more difficult to obtain nip "d" action.

It is also essential that the cue be grasped not at the extreme end, but as close to the "balance point" as possible. This makes a shorter bridge possible and usually results in a smooth, even stroke.

When the cue is held at the extreme end, a pump-like stroke results in which the point of the cue dips down as it is drawn away from the ball, and rises as it approaches the ball. Thus, it becomes almost impossible to back of the balance point. The weight of the cue is sufficient to get the required force.

Study the picture shown here and make an effort to adopt the grip and, I believe, you will find it helpful.

As greater distance is required, it is well to slip the right hand back a trifle on the butt of the cue. However, it is never necessary to go to the extreme end. I play the hardest and longest shots in my fancy shot repertoire with the cue grasped slightly back of the balance point. The weight of the cue is sufficient to get the required force.

Quatrain Destined for Great Future, Derby Victory Shows

Son of Omar Khayyam Merely Gallops to Victory Over Field in Louisiana Feature—Slow Time Due to Bad Track Condition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—Quatrain's easy victory in the Louisiana Derby, yesterday, convinced local racing men that he is destined to repeat the feat of Black Gold last year by winning three or more derbies.

Quatrain, on the outside position at the barrier yesterday, moved into action slowly, and passing the stands was well back of the leaders. One by one he passed his rivals and at the quarter he had assumed the pacemaker's post. From that time he merely galloped to beat Benedict Vow by four lengths. Brave Bob was third, with the others finishing as follows: Stripling Cup, Parole II, Bellamy, Water II, High Water, Beach Talk, Butlin' In and Buzz Fuz.

Time Is Ordinary.
The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1:56, which was 4-1/2 seconds slower than the record. The times made in the other races show that the track was between three and four seconds slow to the mile, which would really mean a creditable victory for Quatrain, who shouldered 126 pounds.

The victory netted the winning stable $17,500. It also sent Quatrain's Kentucky Derby odds rattling down the line, with few bookies caring to lay against the crack Johnson candidate.

May Back New Record.
Quatrain, besides his Kentucky Derby engagement, is also entered in the Louisiana and the Chicago Derbies, and may enter still others, in an effort to establish a world record of five derby victories. Four is the record now held jointly by Claude and Black Gold.

Quatrain will be shipped to Churchill Downs Sunday and rested up, pending the resumption of his sprinting for the Kentucky Derby.

New York will also meet today. Lennen supplied the only upset yesterday when he cut out Joe Murray of San Francisco.

Cleveland is a fine handball town and has several strong players. One of them, Ed Komper, who is still in the running, eliminated Mike Cunningham in his first match.

They have four regulation courts in Cleveland and all of the players use the 101 ball, the official ball of the National A. A. U.

Walker to Box Harmon.
By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight boxing champion, agreed yesterday to meet Willie Harmon, New York welterweight, May 26, in a 12-round no-decision bout for the world's title at Newark, N. J. It was announced here by "Babe" Cullen, matchmaker for the New Jersey arena. Both fighters have agreed to weigh 147 pounds before the fight, Cullen said.

Nurmi, Ill, Quits 5000-Meter Run While in Front

Finn Suffers Attack of Indigestion After Setting Three Records.

By Charles E. Parker.
THE NEW YORK WORLD SPORT STAFF.
NEW YORK, March 18.—Paavo Nurmi, suffering from great pain, all but collapsed on the track four laps from home in the 5000-meter run at the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden last night, when leading Willie Ritola by a good 60 yards. He was unable to start in the one-mile special against Joie Ray and Lloyd Hahn.

Nurmi was the victim of acute indigestion, due, according to the report of physicians, hastily called, to eating heartily of veal three hours before the games.

Physicians forbade Nurmi to attempt to run in the one-mile special, and Paavo, heart-broken at the sorry outcome of what he planned as his greatest night in America, left the Garden for home.

Paavo's time for 4000 yards was 10 minutes 21 seconds, as compared with Ritola's record of 10 minutes 41-1/2 seconds. Nurmi's 4000-meter time was 11 minutes 29-1/2 seconds, as compared with his own former mark of 11 minutes 40-1/2 seconds. Then, too, he ran the 2 1/2 miles in 11 minutes 36-1/2 seconds, as compared with Ritola's 11 minutes 40-1/2 seconds.

The one-mile special found Joie Ray coming once more into his own. He not only defeated Lloyd Hahn, who was regarded as Paavo Nurmi's equal in the middle distance, but won the world's record time of 4 minutes 12 seconds.

Announcement of the time, never before registered by an American athlete and equaled only by Nurmi, brought Joie the wildest ovation that athlete ever received.

Paavo, clutching his side and showing great pain, tried to go on, but a half-hearted jog was all his limbs would contribute. In this manner, with Ritola pulling farther and farther away, Paavo completed another lap, then his frame convulsed once more, and, at the command of his trainer, he stepped from the track, to surrender a scratch race for the first time in nearly five years.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The raw sugar market was unsettled early today. While spot prices were unchanged at 4.74 duty paid, export shipments declined to 471 under increased offerings of duty free sugar. A contract for 10,000 bags of Porto Rican for the March shipment was made to a local buyer at 4.71. The unsettled tone of the spot market and continued light demand

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THESE MODERN LOVERS.

HOW can a man ever understand a woman, when—
She'll refuse to kiss a man who has saved her life—and then fall on his neck, because he tells her how pretty her eyes are or pulls her Pekinese out of the pond.

She'll kiss him and send him away to war with a smile—and then have hysterics when he cuts his finger or gets into a fight with the janitor.

She'll remain cool and brave and perfectly calm when he tells her that he has lost his last dollar—and then faint when he overtures his demi-tasse on her new evening gown.

She'll forgive him for forgetting most of his wedding vows—if he'll only remember the date of his wedding anniversary and the dress she wore the first time he kissed her.

She'll nurse him tenderly through the flu, typhoid or the small-pox—and then push him away from her with a shudder because he has been eating onion soup.

She'll wear a shoe two sizes too small in order to be more attractive to him—and then rag him all evening because her feet hurt.

She'll cover up his failures, lie to hide his shortcomings and follow him to the prison door with her chin up—and then nearly die of humiliation because he gets jumbled up in an after-dinner speech or eats his oysters with his salad fork.

She'll forgive him for leaving his debts unpaid and never giving her a new hat—if he'll only remember to give her the heart of the lettuce, to bring her a bunch of sweet violets, occasionally, and to hold her hand in the taxi.

She'll laugh lightly at his achievements and take his success as a matter of course—and then brag about the way he can pack a trunk, or how he always kisses the nape of her neck when he hooks her dress up the back.

She'll endure grouches and brow-beatings and forgive him for deceiving her—and then pack up and leave him forever because he tells her that she is too fat to wear pink or that her eyes don't match.

She'll tell him "farewell forever" one day—and then call him up next morning and reproach him for not telephoning her.

And HOW can a man understand a creature like that!

Any Woman's Vitality Aided By These Boudoir Exercises

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

EVEN development of all the muscles of the body is the best beauty method to follow in exercising. This is a thing to be brought to the minds of women especially, for so many women do not exercise very much and when they do, it is often the same set of muscles which is repeatedly brought into play.

LUCREZIA BORI

I am not referring to the outdoor type of person who spends much time in out-of-door pursuits, and thus develops her body symmetrically. Her activity may be likened to that of the growing child. In the case of the child who is strenuous and active, the constant brisk exercise that it derives playing out of doors keeps its health at the highest ebb.

Especially if the child is a boy, he seems to be more briskly active than even a small girl of the same age. He runs and wrestles with his companions and plays ball and all manner of thoroughly active games, and thus develops his body symmetrically along lines of health and beauty.

If the grown woman could do the same thing, her health and beauty would improve thereby. That is, if she could throw off all harness and run and tumble, with never a care as to appearance or criticism she would need to take less medicine. Her skin would glow with health and need no patting and rubbing and such beauty measures which must be resorted to in this age when it is so difficult, especially for the woman who lives in the city, to get in her allotted amount of outdoor exercises.

That is why I encourage all mothers to let their children run as free and unhampered as possible. The more of this a child gets while it is at the active age, the better off it is for the rest of its life. The person who keeps up much of this activity after the childhood years are past is the person who retains health and beauty.

It is very possible, however, for the woman who will get a good amount of exercise in the privacy of her own bedroom.

An excellent exercise for toning the muscles of your abdomen and improving your legs and building inner vitality is this one I am going to give you now:

Lie flat on your back on your bed, grasping the top of the bed behind your head, so that you have some means of steadying your body.

Your legs should be extended straight out toward the foot of the bed, toes pointed.

Now, without bending your knee, raise your left leg up to a vertical position. When you have raised it as high as you can, make a little effort and raise it just a trifle higher still.

Return leg to bed, and repeat, keeping up this movement until you are tired.

Now repeat the movement, using your right leg.

If you go through this exercise every day, you will find it excellent to help keep you in good trim, both inside and out.

One cannot expect to obtain the desired results after two or three days of exercising. It is only by persistence and patience that the lost vigor and beauty can be restored. Most women will try for several days or perhaps a week, and then if the desired results do not show immediately, they become discouraged and give up the exercises. This you must never do.

When you begin keep it up, and even after you notice a decided improvement, do not stop. When one loses the freshness and vigor of youth, it is a hard matter to recover it. So, after you recover it, keep it—and this you can do only through constant effort.

Apple Meringue Pie

For a change try this apple pie. Two cupsful of apples stewed or steamed with a bit of lemon rind until tender, one-half cupful sugar, one teaspoon butter, one-half teaspoon nutmeg and cinnamon. When cool add yolks of two eggs slightly beaten and one tablespoonful of cream or rich milk. Fill deep pie crust with this mixture and bake without upper crust. When slightly cool spread top with meringue made of the egg whites. Brown if desired.

ONION SOUP—FRENCH.

Chop four large onions and then simmer them in a half cupful of butter, shaking them well to keep from browning. Stir in a large tablespoonful of flour and when mixed, three cupsful of hot water and three cupsful of milk; simmer 20 minutes, then add pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of sugar. Add half cupful of grated cheese to the beaten yolks of two eggs, spread on slices of toasted French bread and lay in the soup tureen, then turn the hot soup over all.

Miss Helen L. Welsh, assistant secretary of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad, has been granted permission by the Interstate Commerce Commission to become a director on the board of 24 railroads. This is the first time the commission has passed on such an application from a woman.

Flirting

A COMPARATIVELY modern word with an age-old meaning. For flirting has been going on ever since this old world began. Didn't Eve coax Adam to eat of the apple? What else was that but flirting? And there's the other kind of flirting. The treader flirting with Death each time he steps into the arena. The aviator flirting with fate—and death—when he performs his stunts on the plane flying high above the earth. And then, the flirting with Love! Of all, this is the most serious. For flirting is almost a mocking of Love—but, be careful when you begin this kind of flirting that it doesn't turn table and enmesh you in its golden net. For flirting with Love is always fatal—it gets you sooner or later.

—POPINI.

HERE'S A WISE MOTHER

By CAROLYN LISBERGE

"MY boys are getting into many bad habits," a mother complained to me recently.

"But I trust that they will grow out of them, so I leave them alone. I cannot nag at them all day long. And I don't wish to punish them for every little act that displeases me."

Boys and girls can be reached in many better ways than by punishment and preaching. I told this mother of a woman who had cured her two sons of the habit of interrupting people at table.

Reprimands had proved to have no lasting effect, so after giving due thought to what might affect them she decided they could best be reached by an attack on their pocket money.

She announced one day: "Boys, we are establishing a new rule in this house. Anyone who interrupts a person speaking at table will have to pay a fine. At the first offense I will hold up a warning finger. At the second I will fine the interrupter 5 cents."

At the end of a week both boys had lost their whole allowance. By the second week they had improved so much they had to pay only a few fines. At the end of a month they were practically cured of the bad habit.

This had been done with very little effort and with no bad feelings. The woman who can influence her children's behavior without use of force and with as little friction as this one did must be counted a successful mother.

Three Minute Journeys

Where "Solar Eclipse Taint" Is Washed Away

MODERN astronomers have not been able to convince the Hindus that a solar eclipse is simply a natural phenomenon. They see in it some vicious attempt to dull the brilliance of the Brahman of the heavens. The wicked Bahu, pariah of the heavens, casts his shadow over the sun and everything upon which his polluted light falls must be cleansed and purified.

The Hindu takes no food or drink during the eclipse. He breaks all his earthenware pots and cleanses very thoroughly all his brass ones. He throws away all his cooked food and drinking water that may be in his house. And he offers alms to the pariahs of earth as a ransom to the pariah of heaven, to unvail the sun.

But more than these symbolic means of purification, the religious Hindu, must cleanse himself physically to wash away this taint. He must bathe in the flowing water of a stream. If he bathes in one of the holy rivers, the cleansing is far more efficacious.

On one of these occasions, the holy rivers, the Ganges, the Indus, the Jumna, the Godavari, the Nerbudda, the Kaveri and the Brahmaputra, are thronged with pilgrims. The railways run special trains to these spots. For miles along the banks of the rivers there is a seething, yelling, pushing mass of humanity. They fight for a place in the muddy water from 7 o'clock on through the long day.

Little portable restaurants are set up on stilts in the water so that the bathers may buy sweets or nuts.

As the day grows older they come in greater and greater throngs, in groups and singly, chanting and singing, walking and riding.

This is a great day for the beggars, for every devout Hindu must be generous to the pariahs if he wishes to be cleansed. All the monstrosities of the countryside, cripples of every sort, young and old, come to this meeting ground to beg. They sit down and spread a filthy cloth before them. On this they collect the coins and grain that are flung to them. Women will come out of the water, their wet garments clinging to them, and distribute grain among the beggars. Thus do the people of India hope to propitiate the malignant forces of the heavens and induce the sun to shine once more in undimmed brilliance.

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

The women of Persia love dress, intrigue, gossip, tobacco and cheap jewelry.

About 85 per cent of the women garment workers in New York City recently went on strike for a 20 per cent increase in wages and a 40-hour work week.

The first bill vetoed by Gov. Miriam Ferguson of Texas, was one which permitted legislators and their families to accept free passes from Texas railroads.

A newspaper for women and by women, the first of its kind in China, has been started in Tientsin.

CHAPTER 3—LOVE IS FOUND WANTING.

DORIS SUMNER, dropping in upon her sister somewhat later, interrupted Mariana's dreams.

At Doris' entrance, she looked up, with a little exclamation of pleasure and lazily indicated a chair.

"Where on earth have you been? I haven't seen you for months and months!"

"Busy with the 'better milk-for-babies' drive, and acting as secretary protem for the Woman's Political League while Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering was in Europe."

Doris tossed a smart little hat on the desk and gazed around the luxurious room with a faint air of distaste.

"I say, Mariana, it's obvious you didn't have my coloring in mind when you had your place decorated. This primrose stuff makes me look seak—and incidentally, old dear, your perfume makes me feel it. Mind if I open a window?"

Mariana shrugged assent and picked up a black satin cushion from the divan, and tucked it behind her.

Mariana's beauty-loving eye noted appreciatively what a foil it was for Doris' exquisite blondness. Against its somber background, her daintily coiffed head and wildrose fairness were thrown back into a cameo-like relief. The smart severity of her dark frock, belied by absurdly French-heeled suede shoes and a really priceless string of Italian turquoise in wrought silver settings, made Mariana smile. It was so like Doris to be a bewildering self-contradiction, efficiency against alluring femininity!

"Really, Doris," Mariana was reluctant. "I think you might try occasionally to remember that you have a sister in the same city. What if you are up to your eyes in these silly charities and political campaigns, doesn't a family come first? Remember, you're all I've got in the world!"

"There's Charles," suggested Doris with questioning brows.

"Oh Charles!" Mariana shrugged. "Charles is impossible! He's setting fat!"

"Does that make him any the less Charles? The question is—did you marry him for his soul or for his waistline?"

"I married him because I thought I loved him," Mariana declared. "I admired him because he was big and strong and blond. He had a marvelous physique, then—but now—" she spread her hands in a hopeless gesture.

"But, my dear little sister, suppose the situation were reversed and it was you who were becoming fat or dowdy—and let me warn you, you're likely to do both if you don't cut out this lapidous laziness of yours and give your mind and body a bit of exercise."

Doris bit her lip.

"I don't mean to stand by and see Charles go on the rocks, but for the silly, rapid pace of you—that would be a matter. But the trouble is so simple. It's all because you have no sense of your own and you won't merge yourself in Charles' life. The fact that Charles is his youthful silliness half the story. The rest is that you dislike the people that Charles likes, and you can't stand for the silly, rapid pace of you—that would be a matter. But the trouble is so simple. PATRICK'S day was quite a cool day. But, we only have to wait two more weeks till April Fools' day.

Then we all can celebrate. That's the day some guy will trick me! Out of my unwary goat. With a label reading, "Kick me." That he hangs upon my coat.

If somebody does not wise me To the antics of that guy, I've no doubt that he'll surprise me.

With a tempting sawdust pie. "Glazier Joins Angels." Which doesn't necessarily mean that "Whitey" is a dead one.

President Coolidge has been invited to pitch the first ball in the opening game for the Senators. He will probably insist on the ball being a ten-cent racket.

Cal took a little preliminary practice by bawling out the Senators for their action in the Warren matter.

See where Herb Penneck of the Yankees developed a new ball called the "Oliver Twist." He wants more.

It is reported that Paavo Nurmi is seeking a theatrical contract for a long run on the vaudeville circuit.

RAH! RAH!

Knute Rockne's famous "Four Horsemen" will also take the stage in a singing and dancing skit entitled "The Half-back of Notre Dame."

Next to keeping your eye on the ball the most important thing in playing golf is to keep your other eye on the other fellow's score card.

A man may be a pretty fair golfer but at the same time not be a shark at figures.

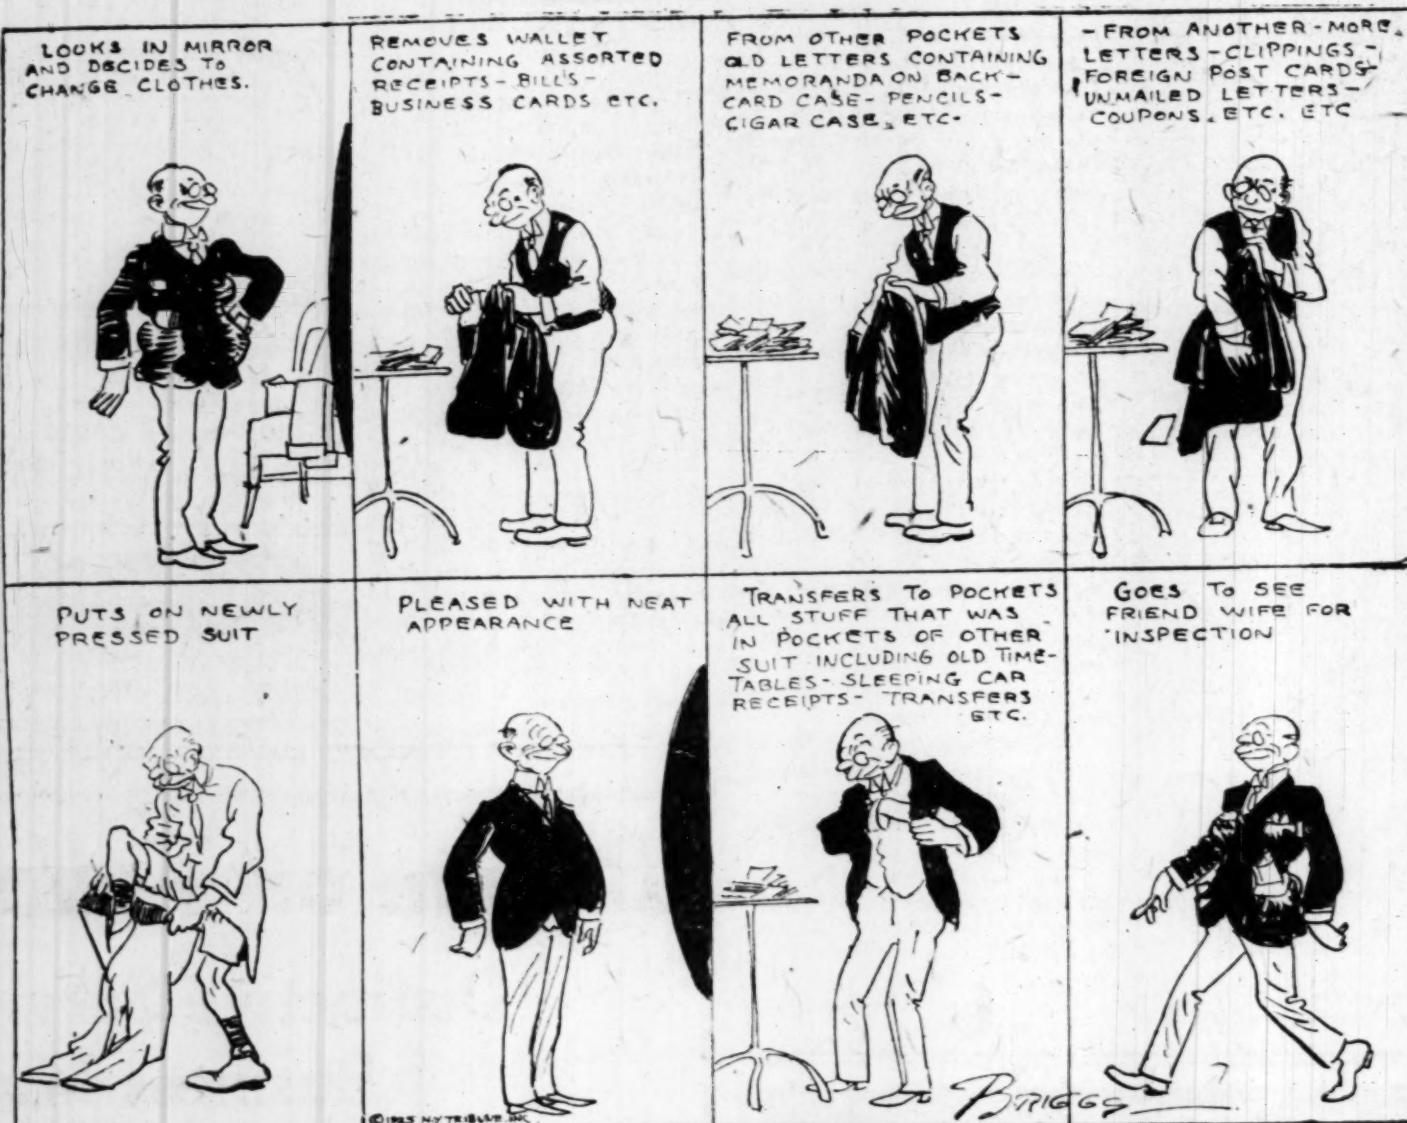

Speaking of golf, see where K.

Baseball is the Judge's dish, but he takes a little golf for an appetizer.

In breaking up its famous quartet Bill McKechnie probably was aiming at less close harmony and more baseball harmony on the team.

TORN Several ROBBER SHOTS DEAF STOREKEEPER SLOW IN OBEYING

Fires Four Bullets Into Body of Fred Heuerman, South Jefferson Avenue
Merchant.

VICTIM ALONE IN STORE AT TIME

Youth Had Ordered Heuerman to Hold Up His Hands—Latter's Condition Critical.

Fred W. Heuerman, 62 years old, was shot four times and critically wounded by a robber who entered his dry goods store, 3501 South Jefferson avenue, at 8:20 a. m. today and made demands which the old man, who was deaf, apparently could not understand or heed.

He was found lying behind a counter with three bullet wounds in the abdomen and one through his right hand, by his daughter-in-law Mrs. Fred W. Heuerman Jr. She had heard the shots and hurried down from the family's living quarters above the store.

Heuerman remained conscious long enough to tell what had happened and described his assailant. He said that the robber, a young fellow about 22 years old, came into the shop and asked to look at socks. Heuerman turned and pulled out a box from the shelves. When he faced his customer he was looking into the muzzle of a revolver.

Youth Opens Fire.

The robber ordered him to hold up his hands. Either he did not hear or did not comply quickly enough. Without a hostile move on Heuerman's part the hold-up man opened fire. His first bullet passed through the box of socks and struck Heuerman in the hand. The next three took effect in the abdomen. Then the robber fled from the store without taking anything.

Critically wounded, Heuerman managed to walk back to his office and telephone the Lutheran Hospital, saying, "Send a doctor to 3501 South Jefferson, quick." He uttered a few steps behind the counter and collapsed.

Scam Roller Drowns Noise.

The fact that a steam roller was at work on the street outside accounts for the fact that the shots attracted no one from the street. The noise even confused Mrs. Heuerman and she hesitated a few minutes before going down to investigate the shots.

At the Lutheran Hospital an immediate operation was found to be necessary. Heuerman is so weak that a blood transfusion is planned for this afternoon. Surgeons hold out little hope for his recovery. He had been in business at the same place 22 years.

CURZON'S CONDITION GRAVE

Physicians Attending Marquis Think He Is Dying.

LONDON, March 19.—A bulletin issued by the physicians attending Marquis Curzon at 9 o'clock this morning said his condition was unchanged.

Marquis Curzon lost ground today, the bulletin issued this morning. The gravity of his condition is increasing steadily. It was announced.

LONDON, March 19.—The Marquis Curzon is dying. This is the opinion of eminent physicians who are attending him. Lord Curzon's condition is grave. The physicians are of the opinion that the Marquis is a victim of a disease of the bladder. It was not success in the removal of growths in the bladder. It is doubted whether any more can be done.
